

HOOVER URGES BUSINESS MEN TO AID PLAN FOR ARMS CUT

Tells International Chamber of Commerce Reduction in Burden Is Paramount as Means of Reviving Industry.

MORE THAN 5,000,000 IN ACTIVE ARMIES

Declares Constant Threats and Fears Contribute to All Forms of Instability, Whether Political or Economic.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—President Hoover today urged business men from many nations to aid the furtherance of plans for reductions in land armament.

Addressing the first session of the International Chamber of Commerce convention, he directed attention to naval limitation agreements. Then he said that soon the principal nations of the world will meet to discuss the questions of reduction in land armament and urged business men to "insist that this problem shall be met with sincerity, courage and constructive action."

The convention here is attended by 1000 delegates from 40 nations. Proposals to decrease armament, Mr. Hoover said, transcend all other advances for world economic rehabilitation. He interpreted the annual world expenditure of $5,000,000,000 on arms as not only a threat to business recuperation, but a serious contribution to all forms of instability, whether social, political or economic.

Text of Address.

The text of the President's speech follows: "I did not come to the United States. You have come from many lands, and at a time of grave responsibilities at home, to participate in discussions that will contribute to world advancement. The consideration and discussion of world-wide economic problems and of the economic relations between nations by men who have had to deal with the results of economic forces can be most helpful to world understanding and world co-operation in their solution. "It is needless for me to emphasize the high degree of economic interdependence of the world—we require no more emphatic demonstration than the present world-wide depression. Although the United States enjoys a far greater economic independence than any other large country, yet we have been gravely affected by world forces.

Post-War Depression. "The present depression is comparable in its extreme depth and extent only to those that have followed about the same distance after the former great wars in modern history. This depression is no doubt contributed to by many very important, immediate economic causes to which each of you will give different weight; but I believe you will all agree with me that the destruction of life and property, the great tax burdens and the social and political instability which resulted from the great war have had large responsibility in its origins.

Over three-quarters of the commercially important population of the world has been in a state of social and political upheaval at some time even during the past three years. Although some secondary part of this political instability may have been the result of immediate economic causes, we cannot ignore the malign inheritance from the great war. These political and social disturbances necessarily undermine that confidence on which economic life, both domestic and international, must rest.

Reduction of Tax Burden. "This is not an occasion for review of the action and interaction of such a multitude of forces, but I do wish to give emphasis to one of these war inheritances in which international co-operation can effect a major accomplishment in reducing the tax burdens 'of the world, removing a primary cause of unrest and establishing greater confidence for the long future. That is the limitation and reduction of armament.

The world expenditure on all arms is now nearly $5,000,000,000 yearly, an increase of about 70 per

CASHIER KILLS WIFE, SELF; SHORT $45,000

Conshohocken, Pa., Man Admitted Embezzlement, Bank Examiner Says.

By the Associated Press. CONSHOHOCKEN, Pa., May 4.—Faced with arrest for the embezzlement of $45,000 from the First National Bank of Conshohocken, of which he was cashier, Howard C. Pedrick, 35 years old, strangled his wife as she slept, police believe, and then shot himself to death in their home here.

They were found today by Pedrick's father, J. Newton Pedrick, retired business man, and another relative, who had been summoned by a maid.

Mrs. Pedrick, 35, president of the women's club of Conshohocken and a leader in civic affairs, was in bed with a stocking knotted around her throat and a gag in her mouth. Pedrick, police said, was found in the garage, a bullet hole in the right temple.

The engine of his own car and that of his wife was running and the garage was filled with carbon monoxide gas.

Pedrick admitted the embezzlement, according to B. B. Davenport, a National Bank examiner.

Tremor Pushes Golf Ball Final Inches Into Cup.

By the Associated Press. MANCHESTER, England, May 4.—As a sharp earth tremor shook the East Lancashire countryside yesterday, a golfer on the Chorlton links drove to within a few inches of the hole. The ball rolled gently and the ball dropped in.

Although seismographs registered only one two-thousandths of an inch, the tremor alarmed thousands in this vicinity. Minor damage was done to smaller buildings but no one was injured.

U. S. BARS PLANES LIKE ONE IN WHICH ROCKNE CRASHED

Fokker F-10-AFI Ships Ordered Out of Service Pending Completion of Maintenance Inquiry.

BUILDER ARRIVES FOR CONFERENCE

Commerce Department Statement Coincident With Rejection of New Type of Transport of Same Firm.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 4.—Assistant Secretary Young announced today that the Commerce Department aeronautics division had ordered discontinuance in passenger service of all Fokker trimotor F-10 and F-10A airplanes in use by four airlines.

The order, which affects approximately 25 trimotor planes, grew out of the investigation of the accident a month ago in which Knute Rockne, Notre Dame football coach, and seven other persons were killed when a wing came off a plane. Young said that the planes would not necessarily be kept out of passenger service permanently, but that the order was effective until certain matters of maintenance could be determined.

Anthony Fokker, designer of the planes, is in Washington for a conference with department officials regarding things that must be done to keep the planes in condition.

The Commerce Department order was issued simultaneously with a formal statement from the Navy Department announcing it had rejected a new Fokker transport airplane because it was "unsafe."

The statement was issued from the office of Rear Admiral William A. Moffitt, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, to clear up, it said, a published suggestion that the plane was "unsafe."

Admiral Moffitt's statement said: "There is no connection between the two incidents. Action on the plane was taken before we knew about the criticism contained in Mr. Fokker's book. The navy tests all new types of planes built for it prior to acceptance and we insist that they measure up to our requirements, especially as to safety. We have returned many planes to manufacturers for further modifications."

No Reflection on Fokker. Col. Young's statement said: "The Department of Commerce has requested certain air transport operators who are now using a particular series of tri-motor Fokker airplanes to temporarily suspend the use of them for passenger transport purposes until such reports from the department and experts from the Fokker company may inspect them for present condition of maintenance."

"The series of ships in question were constructed during 1929 and have been in service since that time. "There is no reflection of any kind upon Fokker aircraft or its basic design and original construction."

"The only point involved is the actual maintenance of the particular ships. This phase of it will be determined as quickly as possible and the ships restored to full service."

Tests on New Plane. In connection with the rejected airplane the Navy said the plane, a new model designed to include special military developments, was tested first last Jan. 15 at the Anacostia Air Station near here. In February the trial board reported the plane unsafe and "the Navy Department notified the Department of Commerce of the results of this first test," the department said.

A second test, following modification by the Fokker Co., was begun on the new plane on April 15. The trial board found, the department said, "that the changes were relatively ineffective and the plane still was unsafe."

The department then prepared a memorandum, it explained, for the War Department and returned the new transport for further modification. The War Department has several Fokker planes in use.

X. P. WILFLEY, FORMER SENATOR, DIES SUDDENLY

Succumbs at 60 Following Severe Cold—Danger Seemed Over a Short Time Before the End.

FUNERAL SERVICES SET FOR WEDNESDAY

He Was Appointed to Senate by Gov. Gardner but Later Lost to Folk in Democratic Primary.

Xenophon P. Wilfley, former United States Senator, died early today at his home, 5275 Westminister place, of a cerebral embolism, or blood clot. He had been ill three days. He was 60 years old.

Former Senator Wilfley took a severe cold Friday, and his physicians feared pneumonia, but it appeared yesterday that this had been avoided. A nurse was at the house last night. Early in the evening Mr. Wilfley sat up, talking briskly, and when Dr. Frank D. Gorham made a second call at 9:30 p. m. he was sleeping quietly. Soon after 3 a. m. he awoke in great discomfort, and convulsions followed. Mr. Wilfley died a half hour later about the time that Dr. Gorham and Dr. C. E. Burford reached the house.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Rosamond Guthrie of Mexico, Mo., and two daughters, Mary Ellen, 18, a student in Welles College, Aurora, N. Y., and Rosemond, 9, a student in the University of Wisconsin. Another brother, Douglas Wilfley, lives in Rochester, N. Y.

The funeral will be held at 3 p. m. Wednesday at St. John's Methodist Church, Kingshighway and Washington boulevard. Burial will be in Oak Grove Cemetery.

Former Bar Association Head. A member of the law firm of Wilfley, Williams & Nelson, ex-United States Senator, was one of the foremost attorneys of St. Louis, and was a former president of the Missouri Bar Association. His rise to high professional and political position was accomplished against great odds.

He was the son of a Callaway County farmer, the family removing to Audrain County in his boyhood. At the age of 3 he was crippled with an acute form of rheumatism, and necrosis of the leg bones developed. As a child he was unable to walk, and was carried about by his parents and older brother.

After years of treatment he became able to walk, but he was a lifelong cripple, his stature being below normal because of the impaired development of his legs. He entered earnestly into all physical activity which was possible to him, and in his later years was an enthusiastic golfer.

As a student in Central College, at Fayette, Mo., young Wilfley took the lead in oratory and debating. He represented his college in the State oratorical contest of 1892, and was ranked second by the judges, the winner being W. J. Williamson of William Jewell College, later a noted St. Louis clergyman. In 1894 he again represented Central College, and won first place over a speaker from the State University, whom many had considered unbeatable.

Asked About Wealthy Men. "When they kidnapped Chamberlain they asked him who else in Blue Island had money and the names of all those in the racket," Hackett said. "They asked me the same thing and I didn't tell them. They only got about $600 from Chamberlain."

"You can't hold out anything on us," one of the men said to me. "We got information about how much dough you fellows have from the income tax office. We know how much of a tap you can stand and you'll have to pay $150,000." Hackett is said to have retired from the gambling business a month before an attempt last March 2 to blow up with a bomb an establishment he formerly ran in Blue Island. The bomb failed to explode, but William Hackett, night watchman, was shot to death by the men who placed the bomb. Hackett said there was no connection between the attempted bombing and his abduction.

FALL WILL NOT APPEAL; EX-SECRETARY THROWS SELF ON MERCY OF PRESIDENT

SAYS KIDNAPERS GOT $150,000, HIS ENTIRE FORTUNE

Chicago Slot Machine Man Reports Wife Even Mortgaged Their Home to Effect His Release.

SEIZED ON GROUNDS OF COUNTRY CLUB

Declares Gang Asked for Names of Other Wealthy Persons, but He Refused to Give Them.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, May 4.—A story that his entire fortune of $150,000 had been paid to kidnapers for his release was told today by James Hackett, former gambler and wealthy roadhouse operator of suburban Blue Island.

The 57-year-old Hackett, who weighs 340 pounds and is regarded by police as the "dictator" of the slot machine business in the southern part of Cook County, was kidnapped by a gang Friday, he advised police last night.

Hackett said his wife worked from Friday to Sunday to raise the $150,000, converting jewelry and securities into cash, even going so far as to mortgage their home. This was done on assurance he would sign the mortgage as soon as he was freed.

Investigator Challenges Amount. Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the State's Attorney's office, said that while he believed Hackett was kidnapped, he doubted if the ransom was as high as $150,000.

Hackett said he was trailed to the Idaho Country Club by the gang in two automobiles. After winding gauntlet around his head to prevent him from seeing, they drove him to a house which he thought was 15 or 20 miles away. Later his wife was told by the kidnapers over the telephone that she would never see him again unless the money were paid. She and Blount met the abductors on a country road. Hackett was freed a short while later near Melrose Park, after he had been driven around in his own automobile.

Belief was expressed by Hackett that the kidnapers were affiliated with a national organization which makes a business of abducting wealthy men, and that they had been responsible for other abductions, such as that on Jan. 6 of Daniel Chamberlain, a Blue Island gambler.

Asked About Wealthy Men. "When they kidnapped Chamberlain they asked him who else in Blue Island had money and the names of all those in the racket," Hackett said. "They asked me the same thing and I didn't tell them. They only got about $600 from Chamberlain."

By the Associated Press. BERLIN, May 4.—Capt. The message said the trip, which was one of the longest yet essayed by the Dornier plane, was without incident.

The flight to Bolama was made from Villa Cisneros, Rio de Oro, a distance of about 950 miles. From Bolama Christiansen expects to begin the ocean leg of the long deferred flight to Brazil.

TEACHER AND TWO PUPILS KILLED BY TRAIN ON TRESTLE

Another Girl in Party Run Down Crossing Span Near Atkinson, Ill., Seriously Injured.

By the Associated Press. ATKINSON, Ill., May 4.—A school teacher and two of her pupils, caught on a high trestle as they returned from picking wild flowers, were killed by a train today. Another child was injured.

The dead: Miss Helen Scott, 25 years old, teacher of the Grand View School two miles west of Atkinson; Beulah Peterson, 8, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Peterson of Atkinson; June Mason, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mason of Atkinson. Edith Peterson, older sister of Beulah, was seriously injured.

The party had set out during the noon recess to gather wild flowers. On their return they started across the high trestle over Spring Creek, when the train ran them down.

Belief was expressed by Hackett that the kidnapers were affiliated with a national organization which makes a business of abducting wealthy men, and that they had been responsible for other abductions, such as that on Jan. 6 of Daniel Chamberlain, a Blue Island gambler.

SWEDISH FLYER LANDS ON GREENLAND COAST

He Is Carrying Supplies for Meteorologist Marooned on Ice Cap.

By the Associated Press.
ANGMAGSALIK, Greenland, May 4.—Capt. Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish aviator, was within flying distance today of the tiny hut on Greenland's ice cap where August Courtauld, British explorer, has been marooned for months.

After one false start, Capt. Ahrenberg flew here yesterday from Reykjavik, Iceland, in five hours, completing a dangerous trip across the North Atlantic from Maine, Sweden in four stages. Formation of ice on the wings of his plane prevented him from continuing his journey.

Capt. Ahrenberg's immediate destination is the main camp of the British Arctic air route expedition, about 40 miles inland, and thence to the meteorological station, about 150 miles inland, where Courtauld volunteered to spend the winter gathering data for a proposed air line to Canada. He plans to drop food for the explorer and possibly make a landing to bring him back.

Meanwhile, three dog-team expeditions are presumed to be nearing their objective. One is led by H. G. Watkins, head of the expedition, and the other two by friends of Courtauld. Nothing has been heard from them for some time but they are thought to be well fortified against the rigors of the north.

The Danish cruiser Hvidbjorn is at the Greenland ice barrier, waiting to be of assistance to the searching parties. The Icelandic patrol boat Odinn is bound back to Reykjavik from the ice barrier to obtain repairs for Sigurd Jensen's plane.

Major Sydney Cotton, British flyer, hopes to get away from Hull, England, tomorrow. Mechanics are working day and night to fit his plane with extra fuel tanks and modern wireless apparatus. It has a range of 1200 miles.

DR. KELLEY BACK AT HIS PRACTICE AFTER KIDNAPING

Away From His Office Since April 20—Leaves Home for Second Time to Attend Church.

TRIES TO RETRACE ROUTE OF ABDUCTION Unable to Locate Shed Where He Was Held—R. M. Kelso Tells Remedy for Type of Crime.

Dr. I. D. Kelley returned today to his practice which had gone without his attention since the night of April 20 when he was kidnaped in Davis place, Clayton subdivision, after being lured from his home at 33 Portland place by a fake telephone call for his professional services.

The ear, nose and throat specialist said that he felt completely recovered from the physical and emotional strain of more than seven days in the hands of his kidnapers, a period of captivity that ended when he was released to John T. Rogers of the Post-Dispatch news staff.

Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock he attended services at the New Cathedral. It was his second trip from his home since his return. The first trip was made Saturday afternoon to the police station where he was held for more than three hours with Chief of Police Gerk, Chief of Detectives Kaiser and Sheriff Lill of St. Louis County, in pursuance of his promise to cooperate actively in the search for the kidnapers.

Tries to Retrace Route.
During Saturday evening Dr. Kelley, accompanied by Sheriff Lill, tried to retrace the route taken at his kidnaping. The direction of the abduction had climbed into the car at Oleta and Crescent drives and told him to drive as directed.

Dr. Kelley's directions took the Sheriff north on North Street, east to Harley road, and north a short distance, where the kidnapers had made Dr. Kelley turn around and wait a few moments. Olive Street runs west and north on North Street and south where they waited again.

After a few moments they drove south, then west on what Dr. Kelley believed the first road north of Olive Street road. Finally he was ordered to stop and his kidnapers blindfolded him. He was then led into what seemed to be a shed. He was unable to locate it Saturday night as reporters and detectives had failed to find it. The neighborhood is thickly settled and there are many similar locations, any of which might be the place where Dr. Kelley's kidnapers first took him.

During his visit to headquarters Dr. Kelley furnished the police with his fingerprints for comparison with two fingerprints developed from his automobile after it was abandoned by the kidnapers. Both prints on the car were made by the physician, so that it proved positive.

CREMATORY INSTEAD OF POTTER'S FIELD

Aldermen's Committee Favors Bill for $30,000 Building at Infirmary.

The Public Welfare Committee of the Board of Aldermen voted today to report favorably a bill appropriating $30,000 for construction of a crematory at the rear of the Infirmary, at 5500 Arsenal street. The crematory is to be used instead of Potter's Field.

Hospital Commissioner Lohr told the Aldermen about 50,000 bodies were buried in Potter's field, which is so crowded with graves that many as four bodies are buried one above another. Residents of the vicinity favor the crematory, he said, and he expects no objections based on religious principles, because Jewish and Catholic societies provide burial in their own cemeteries for unclaimed bodies of persons of those faiths.

The committee discussed also the purchase of two playgrounds and requested Associate Comptroller Cunningham to negotiate with owners of the property for outright purchase to avoid condemnation proceedings.

Frank Commissioner Pape recommended purchase of the baseball park at Compton avenue and Market street, used by the Negro professional baseball team, and said he thought it could be bought for about $150,000. It would be converted into a three-acre playground for Negroes. The property is owned by Richard Kent, a Negro, who is a member of the Republican City Committee.

The other playground, at Shenandoah and Ohio avenues, has been leased by the city for several years. Pape said he thought it could be bought for about $5,000.

The committee acted favorably on a bill introduced by Alderman Studt to make an 11-acre tract between Calvary and Bellefontaine cemeteries Charles F. Busche Park. Busche, who died about 10 years ago, was once a State Senator and was prominent in community activities in North St. Louis. The city acquired the land in connection with construction of Calvary avenue.

MAN WHO GAVE HIS BLOOD IN 200 TRANSFUSIONS DIES Succumbs to Heart Attack in Philadelphia Home; Ailed Wounded in World War.
PHILADELPHIA, May 4.—Howard N. Kennedy, who gave blood in more than 200 transfusions, fell dead of a heart attack at his home here yesterday. Estimates made by friends from records they had kept show, it is thought, that he gave his blood to more persons in transfusions than any other man.

A. C. F. MEYER FUNERAL AT 2:30 P. M. TOMORROW

Services at Home for Banker Who Killed Himself Apparently in Despondency Over Ill Health.

The funeral of Alfred C. F. Meyer, South St. Louis banker, who shot and killed himself Saturday afternoon at his home in apparent despondency over poor health, will be conducted at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at his residence, Lindbergh boulevard and Robyn road, St. Louis County, south of Kirkwood. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mr. Meyer, who was 57 years old, was president of the Lafayette South Side Bank & Trust Co., 1741 South Broadway, and of the South Side National Bank, 3501 South Grand boulevard, and was chairman of the board of the Twelfth Street National Bank, 1111 Chouteau avenue.

The latter two depositories are controlled by interests affiliated with the Lafayette bank. A coroner's jury at Kirkwood today returned a verdict of suicide. The only witness was Alfred A. Meyer, eldest of Mr. Meyer's five sons. He related that as he and his wife approached his father's home for an unexpected visit Saturday afternoon they heard a shot from north of the house on the small estate. He thought it was his brother or someone else on the family trap-shooting range.

Looking for his father, he said, he walked in that direction and found his father's body lying in a clump of small trees about 150 yards north of the house and near the trap range. A .33-caliber revolver was beside the body, the witness said. Meyer telephoned for a doctor and an ambulance, but the physician pronounced his father dead. Mr. Meyer had been in ill-health for some time, the younger Meyer told the jury. The banker had been suffering from a diabetic condition and recurrent heart attacks.

Hugo F. Urbauer, chairman of the board of the Midwest Piping & Supply Co. will fill the vacancy position of chairman of the board of the Lafayette South Side Bank & Trust Co.

Joseph L. Rehme, executive vice president of the Lafayette South Side Bank & Trust Co., has been chosen by directors of that depository to succeed Mr. Meyer as president. Rehme also is a vice president of the South Side National Bank and is understood he may take Mr. Meyer's place as president there, too, but that has not been determined. A successor to Mr. Meyer as board chairman of the Twelfth Street National Bank has not yet been selected.

With Bank 14 Years.
Rehme has been with the Lafayette bank for more than 14 years, having started as assistant cashier. Before that he was with the Clearing House Association for 11 years, being chief of the branch when he left. He resides at 2544 Junata street, is married and has four children.

To demonstrate their declaration that the three banks were in excellent financial condition, their officers had large amounts of cash on hand today. The Lafayette bank had $5,000,000 and the South Side National $2,500,000, Rehme said. This was about 10 times the amount each usually carries. Louis C. W. Hecht, president of the Twelfth Street National, said his bank also had "plenty" of money today. Police details were sent to each bank to guard the money, about 10 officers being stationed in and near the Lafayette bank. No unusual business was anticipated.

Business went on as usual in the three banks today. Active pallbearers at Mr. Meyer's funeral will be Marion C. Early, Paul W. Wilcutt, John B. Strauch, Richard S. Hawes, George E. W. Lechmann and Nicholas Martin. Included in the list of honorary pallbearers are: Gov. Henry S. Caulfield, Hugo F. Urbauer, August A. Busch, Joseph L. Rehme, Walter W. Smith, William J. Jones, J. Sheppard Smith, William Reimann, George W. Wilson, Oscar L. Kupferer, Louis C. W. Hecht, John G. Lonsdale, Leo S. Rassieur, Adolph Elling, Harry W. Krieger.

MILLIKEN ORDERED TO PAY TEMPORARY ALIMONY AND FEES

Son of Wealthy Chemical Manufacturer Must Give Wife $300 a Month Pending Divorce Trial.

Mrs. Mildred Carver Milliken, who is suing to divorce John T. Milliken Jr., obtained temporary alimony of $300 a month and $4000 for attorneys' fees and expenses of prosecuting her suit in a ruling today by Circuit Judge Hoffmeister. At the same time he overruled a motion by the defense to dismiss the suit and set the case for trial June 1.

Milliken, son of the late millionaire chemical manufacturer, had protested at a hearing on the motions last week that he was "broken" owed $15,000 and could not afford to pay alimony. He has an income of about $15,000 a year from the estate of his father.

His attorneys, Randolph Laughlin and James Hector, had sought to have his wife's suit dismissed on the ground that she is not a resident of St. Louis. Since the separation a year ago she has been living at the home of her mother, Mrs. A. W. McCloy, Pittsburg, Pa.

Judge Hoffmeister held she had satisfied legal requirements concerning residence and referred in his ruling to a stipulation filed by both parties to the case March 25. He related to the taking of depositions and bound Milliken to file an entry of appearance "to the merits of the case."

The court held this language to mean that Milliken would waive technicalities so the case could be tried on its merits. Mrs. Milliken, who was married in Miami, Fla., in February, 1929, after a 10-day courtship, alleges general indignities. Milliken has filed a blanket denial and cross charges of indignities. He is suing her relatives for $350,000, alleging alienation of affections.

16 EARLY INDIAN SKELETONS FOUND AT STARVED ROCK PARK

Graves in Layer Form Uncovered by University of Illinois Anthropologists.

By the Associated Press.
LA SALLE, Ill., May 4.—Sixteen skeletons, from some early Indian tribe, have been uncovered by University of Illinois anthropologists in a mound on the edge of Starved Rock State Park. Several Indian relics were shipped to Champaign for examination.

Arthur Randolph Kelly, professor of anthropology, said the mound formerly was the site of the old village of Science—extinct for 50 years—and was thought to be an Indian settlement several centuries ago.

The graves were in layer or tier form, but in no particular order. "A hard metallic ring," he said, gave evidence the skeletons were of some early tribe.

With him were his wife and his father-in-law, Simon Tober, 71 years old. Tober was knocked down when the two robbers when he attempted to resist.

A purse containing $10 and a wrist watch was taken from Mrs. Randall Gutman, 4587 Aldine place, when she and her husband were accosted by a Negro in front of 4233 Easton avenue.

Wifley was active in the affairs of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and in 1926 was made vice president of the church's Board of Finance. In St. John's Church he was a steward, trustee and Bible class teacher. His lecture on "The Trial of Jesus From a Lawyer's Standpoint," has been delivered in various churches in and outside St. Louis.

In the 1928 campaign, Wifley stumped the Democratic strongholds of Central Missouri, trying to hold back the defection of Democrats, who opposed Gov. Smith as a wet, and on religious grounds. In his "lay sermons" he told his hearers that he had once felt a prejudice against the Catholic Church, but that this had been overcome by a fuller acquaintance with that church's teachings, and with its work for the poor.

He argued, as a believer in the prohibition law, that Gov. Smith would enforce that law more honestly and effectively than the Republican administration had done. Wifley's term as head of the State Bar Association was in 1924-25. In 1925 he was made one of the three trustees of Barnes Hospital.

SAN DIEGO GIRL FATALY STABBED, SUITOR IS HELD

Body of Telephone Operator, Who Supported Family, Found in Indian Village With 17 Wounds.

By the Associated Press.
SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 4.—The body of Miss Hazel Bradshaw, 27 years old, was found yesterday with 17 stab wounds in it, lying near an adobe wall of the Indian village here. M. E. Garrison, 35, her suitor, was held for questioning. The young woman was the principal support of her mother and aine brothers and sisters.

Although her slaying was the fourth in recent weeks, police declared there was no link between Miss Bradshaw's death and that of 10-year-old Virginia Brooks, whose body was found March 11; that of Louise Tueber, hanged two weeks ago, or that of Mrs. Dolly Bibbens, strangled in her apartment. No clue has been found to the slayers of the other three.

Shortly after Miss Bradshaw's body was found, Garrison, a steward in the commissary department of the San Diego & Arizona Railroad, for which Miss Bradshaw worked as a telephone operator, walked into Police Headquarters and said: "I hear that Hazel is dead."

He admitted he had been with Miss Bradshaw Saturday night. "We went to two movies together," he said. "We generally did that on Saturday nights. Then we walked through the park, past the merry-go-round and the Indian village to her home. I left her at the door at 11:55 p. m., and saw her enter before I ran to catch my street car home."

Police said they were not satisfied with Garrison's story. Officers said Mrs. C. A. Bradshaw, Hazel's mother, did not hear her daughter come home. Police said there were two discrepancies in Garrison's account. Garrison said he had bought candy for the girl, but the Coroner's autopsy showed that she had not eaten during the evening. Her watch, stopped apparently by blood, registered 9:43.

Herbert Collins, a taxicab driver, told police Garrison resembled a man he had taken with the girl to an apartment at 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning. They were quarreling, Collins said.

No knife was found. A bottle found a dozen paces from the body contained a small amount of wine. A man's handkerchief had been stuffed into the girl's mouth.

MINING MAN CHARGED WITH KILLING WOMAN YEAR AGO

Charles Peter Arrested in Salt Lake City Accused of Murder of Mrs. Moormeister.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 4.

Charles Peter, mining promoter, was held today for first degree murder, charged with killing Mrs. Dorothy Dexter Moormeister of this city, on a country road more than a year ago.

Peter, at the inquest, said he was not intimately acquainted with Mrs. Moormeister, but was thrown into contact with her through his friendship for her husband, Dr. Frank Moormeister.

He said that Feb. 21, 1930, the night she was killed, robbed of jewelry and disfigured under the wheels of an automobile, he was at his home, but he admitted he had accompanied her on an automobile ride a week before.

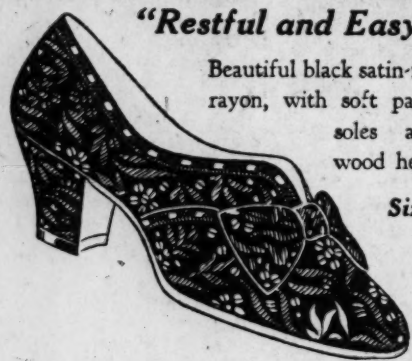

Sheriff S. Grant Young reported George Edmonds, a mechanic, said Peter drove Mrs. Moormeister's car the night she was killed.

Young has gone today to Berkeley, Cal., to interview Dr. E. C. Heinrich, called into the case by Dr. Moormeister after the inquest jury failed to return a positive verdict.

STILL SEIZED ON TIP BY GAS INSPECTORS

Theft of Fuel Exposes Plant in House—900 Gallons of Mash Found.

Acting on information furnished by inspectors for the Laclede Gas Light Co., who had discovered that gas for the operation of a large still was being diverted before it reached the meter, police yesterday seized the still and a quantity of mash on the second floor of a house at 4567 Newberry terrace. The still had a daily capacity of about 100 gallons and 36 gallons of whiskey had been produced a short time before police arrived. Barrels contained 900 gallons of mash. No one was found on the premises.

Inquiring as to the whereabouts of a man they were seeking, police yesterday smelled a strong odor of mash when a woman who said she was Mrs. Kate Orzel, a widow, opened the door of her flat at 1213A Howard street. A still of 16 gallons daily capacity, placed on a gas stove, was in plain view from the door, police reported. Mrs. Orzel was arrested.

A man booked as Frank Tebeau, 1909 Sidney street, was arrested after police found a quantity of liquor behind a bar on the third floor at 523 Pine street.

Investigating a report that a man had been shot at 2409A Madison street, police arrested Raymond Erker, a mechanic, who resides there, when they found 87 bottles of home brew. He said four strangers had forced their way into his home, tied him up and started quarreling with each other, all fleeing after one of them had fired a shot at another.

RECEIVERSHIP SOUGHT FOR $35,000,000 LUMBER FIRM

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 4.—A Federal receivership for the $35,000,000 Pickering Lumber Co., which operates manufacturing plants in Louisiana, Texas and California, and retail yards in the Southwest, has been sought by Harold W. Woodbury, a bondholder.

A call was issued recently to holders of $7,000,000 Pickering bonds, requesting they be deposited with a bondholders' protective committee. Deposited bonds were to be advanced interest due May 1, defaulted by the company itself. Jesse Andrews, attorney for the concern, said the receivership application would be resisted as an unnecessary burden on the organization.

OBJECTS TO DEPORTING AMERICAN-BORN WIDOW

Woman's Party Labor Denies Law Required Labor Department Action.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Mrs. Burnita Shelton Matthews, chairman of the lawyers' council of the national Woman's party, takes issue with the Labor Department announcement that it had no alternative under the law to deporting Mrs.
Lillian Larch, American-born widow of a Canadian, and her children.

The announcement followed a protest by the organization against Mrs. Larch's recent deportation from Detroit to Wallaceburg, Ontario, Canada.

The department, Mrs. Matthews said in a statement, "had ample authority to postpone deportation and thus allow Mrs. Larch time to make application for resumption of her United States citizenship."

"Mrs. Larch is said to be illiterate," she added. "If that be true, there is all the more reason why the Department of Labor should have pursued the humane policy of advising this poor woman, who had no way of finding out for herself that she might make application to regain the citizenship of which she had been deprived without her own consent upon marriage to a Canadian."

"Her poverty is an argument brought forward by the Department of Labor to excuse the harsh action taken against her. Her poverty is undeniable, yet she was not even allowed time to sell her few household belongings before being hurried out of her native country across the border. Such haste was inexcusable."

"Extensions of time before deportation had been allowed to men aliens of foreign birth, even when they had been charged with serious offenses. The most serious offense of this American-born woman, mother of four children, is poverty."

TROTSKY SEEKS ADMITTANCE TO NEW SPANISH REPUBLIC

Russian Exile, Eager to Leave Turkey, Wires for Visa.

By the Associated Press.

INSTANBUL, Turkey, May 4.—
Leon Trotsky is looking toward Spain as a possible haven during his exile from Russia.

The former Soviet leader is pleased with a declaration attributed to Alexander Lerroux, Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs, that the new republic should offer him its hospitality. Trotsky has telegraphed to Niceto Alcalá Zamora,
President of Spain, and Francisco Maciá, President of Catalonia, asking for a visa.

Trotsky's secretary yesterday said that Lerroux's gesture came as a surprise to the Russian exile, who had about given up hope of escaping from Turkey, which he finds uncongenial.

It is believed the Spanish climate would be more favorable for him and his sickly wife and his daughter, who suffers from tuberculosis.
Above all, he wants to leave Turkey, whose friendship toward the Soviet Government makes his role of guest here awkward.

Trotsky especially wanted to go to Germany or England, where he would have access to extensive libraries as an aid in his historical writings. Soon after the Labor Government came into power in England he asked Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald to admit him, but the request was refused.

CORNER STONE OF TEMPLE IN UNIVERSITY CITY IS LAID

1000 of Shaare Emeth Congregation Witness Ceremony; Rabbi Gordon Speaks.

The cornerstone of Temple
Shaare Emeth, 6900 Delmar boulevard, University City, was laid yesterday. About 1000 persons witnessed the ceremony.

Rabbi Julius Gordon referred to the temple as "a house of prayer and learning symbolizing knowledge and reverence, piety and scholarship." Dr. Max E. Goldstein laid the mortar with a trowel used by his father in laying the cornerstone of the old temple, which stood once at Lindell boulevard and Vandeventer avenue.

Speakers included Rabbi Samuel Salo, rabbi emeritus; Louis Straus, honorary president; former Circuit Judge A. B. Frey, representing the Brotherhood of the Congregation; Mrs. W. E. Ebert of the Sisterhood; and Fred Haffner, of the schoolboys of the temple.
Mayor Ruth and City Attorney Grant extended congratulations on behalf of University City. The building will cost about $250,000.

U. S. PARIS MEMORIAL TO DE GRASSE UNVEILED

Tribute From Hoover to Ally of Colonials Read at Dedication.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, May 4.—A memorial to Francis Joseph Paul Admiral Count de Grasse, French commander in the American Revolution, was unveiled today at the Trocadero Palace, and after an address by American Ambassador Walter Evans Edge, was formally presented to the Government of France. Ambassador Edge read the following statement from President Hoover:

"The scroll of French history is so long, and inscribed with so many illustrious names, that a Frenchman might be permitted a moment of uncertainty in establishing the place of the Count de Grasse. For an American, however, no such uncertainty can exist. The circumstances of 1781 in which Admiral de Grasse anchored his flagship, the Ville de Paris, at the gate of Chesapeake Bay, were too momentous for us to forget.

"The energy and independence of his character, moreover, are preserved for us in the letters of Gen. Washington: 'The resolutions that you have taken in our circumstances,' wrote the Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Army, soon after the arrival from the West Indies of the French fleet, 'prove that a great mind knows how to make personal sacrifices to secure an important general good.'

"And when that important general good had been secured, Washington was the first to acknowledge how large a share of the honor pertained to De Grasse. He wrote on the eve of the Admiral's departure: 'The triumphant manner in which Your Excellency had maintained the mastery of the American seas, and the glory of the French flag, lead both nations to look to you as the arbiter of the war.'

"In that lofty place the Admiral remains. The name of De Grasse, and of his famous ship are woven into the web of American history. I, therefore, consider it an honor, on an occasion so interesting to my fellow countrymen and to myself, to participate in this act of homage to the memory of a great man who belongs alike to France and to the United States."

Premier Pierre Laval was represented by Minister of Pensions de Ribes, Foreign Minister Briand by Minister Plenipotentiary de Vitrolles, and Minister of Marine Dumont by Vice Admiral Viel, Chief of the Naval General Staff.

The monument is the gift of A. Kingsley Macomber of Morristown, N. J., and was designed by Paul Londowsky, French sculptor.

SIMPLE FUNERAL FOR GEORGE F. BAKER

As He Wished, His Bank Will Remain Open During Services Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 4.—The simplicity of the life of George Fisher Baker, banker and philanthropist, who died Saturday night at the age of 81, will be reflected in his funeral tomorrow. Services will be held at the Baker home in Tuxedo Park, N. Y., at noon, with the Rev. Dr. Minot Simon, rector of All Souls' Unitarian Church, officiating.

Mr. Baker was a trustee of All Souls' Church for 50 years. There will be no eulogy in accordance with a wish expressed by Baker during his life. The services will consist of hymns, prayer and a scriptural reading followed by the benediction. Mr. Baker's body will be buried beside that of his wife in Kensico Cemetery.

Thousands of messages of condolence have been received from prominent men, including President Hoover and ex-President Coolidge. In accordance with wishes expressed by Mr. Baker, there will be no honorary pallbearers, no ostentation, and the First National Bank of New York, of which he was chairman of the board, will remain open. The Union League Club will send a delegation headed by Ellihu Root and including James R. Sheffield, Alfred E. Marling, Louis S. Brady, John A. Philbrick, Walter E. Frew, Thomas W. Lamont, Henry J. Cochran, Andrew Mills, Harry E. Ward, Harry A. Cushing, Charles M. Schwab, Robert C. Morris, John W. Herbert, Herbert L. Satterlee, Alfred L. Alken, Harris A. Dunn, George B. Wightman, O. H. Cheney, Charles E. Hughes, Charles C. Paulding, Charles Presbrey, Albert N. Connett, William H. Perkins, Albert H. Wiggin, Theodore Fietler, Lewis L. Clarke, Lewis E. Pierson, George W. Hodges, George D. Arthur, George McNeil, William Shields, Washington E. Connor, Frederick H. Ecker, Lawrence T. Cole, Eugene V. Connett Jr. and Bertram H. Borden.

Stock Fluctuations Affect Inheritance Tax on Baker Estate.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 4.—Because George F. Baker died during the business depression, the Federal Government and the states in which he owned property will not collect such huge taxes as they would have received during the boom period of 1929.

Estimation of the wealth of the third wealthiest man in the country range from $200,000,000 to $500,000,000 and even higher.

The Federal Government and New York State, in which Mr. Baker held the larger part of his fortune, take the fair market value on the day of death in levying taxes on securities.

At the height of the bull market Baker owned 2000 shares in the First National Bank of a paper valuation of $120,000,000. They are now quoted around $15,000,000. That shrinkage alone makes a difference of $105,000,000 in the tax to be collected in this State. New York takes 16 per cent of the amount by which an estate exceeds $10,000,000.

The Federal Government gets its share of the estate after the states have taken theirs, allowing certain credits for taxes paid to states.

Like the First National stock, Baker's 87,000 shares of U. S. Steel common, his 63,000 shares of American Telephone & Telegraph and the $48,000,000 in railroad stocks credited last winter to him and his son, George F. Baker Jr., have fluctuated in value. Steel, for instance, sold around 26 1/2 at one time in 1929. Last Saturday it closed at 115 1/4.

BYRD'S ANTARCTIC SCOUT TO SPEAK TO ST. LOUIS BOYS

Paul A. Siple, Now a College Sophomore, Arrives to Address Court of Honor Tonight.

Paul A. Siple, the Boy Scout who went with Byrd to the Antarctic, arrived in St. Louis today to attend a Court of Honor at Scottish Rite Cathedral tonight, when 18 scouts will be made Eagle Scouts, the highest award in scouting.

Siple, a 19-year-old assistant scoutmaster when he joined the expedition, is now 22 and a sophomore at Allegheny College, Meadville, Pa., trying to do three years' work in two despite interruptions occasioned by speaking engagements and participation in scouting events. He still is an assistant scoutmaster and a mate in the Sea Scouts.

He will tell St. Louis scouts tonight about his work with the expedition, driving dog teams, making nature notes, developing his skill as a taxidermist.

"I can't fully measure what I got out of the expedition until I get ready to die," Siple, a slow-spoken young man, 6 feet 1 inch tall and weighing 165 pounds, said as he sewed a button on his mate's uniform before discarding his pepper and salt suit.

"Will Never Leave Scouting." "I know this much—I'll never get away from scouting. I haven't figured out yet just what I'll do after I leave college. But I'm majoring in biology and it will be something of a scientific nature. Besides, I hope to go on two or three more expeditions, at least one with the Admiral, if he'll have me.

"The greatest thing I got out of the trip was the contact with the men of the party. And then the after effects have been wonderful for me, making speeches, that sort of thing. You couldn't have hired me to make a speech before. Now I don't like to, but can."

"But he helped me a lot to know such men as the Admiral, Larry Gould, Capt. McKinley and the others. That's right, Capt. McKinley's from St. Louis. He's a splendid fellow with a captivating smile. He made me welcome from the first. Some of the men did not like the idea of having a Boy Scout along, but after they saw how big I was and that I was willing to pitch in and swab decks they were fine to me."

A Regular Dog Driver. Siple's duties aboard ship were those of a common seaman. While at Little America he learned to drive dogs, even breaking in 15 puppies, and became a regular dog driver with two teams of nine dogs each, besides attending to his taxidermy.

On the return trip, he was detailed to look after the penguins, two of which were consigned to the St. Louis Zoo. But they all died, some for lack of proper diet, others because caustic soda used in washing down the decks seeped through to their cages.

"To tell the truth, I didn't have time to get homesick," Siple said, "and I was more homesick when I left Antarctica than when we sailed from New York. I never doubted I would return home safely but when we started home from Little America I was afraid I'd never have a chance to see that country again. But now I think I will. Up there, there are so many things to do you can't get around to doing them all."

"Yes, I heard about Fokker's remarks about the Admiral, but I think maybe he's prejudiced because of a very close personal friendship with Balchen. But I know he wouldn't stand for one talking about the other."

Pays Visit to the Zoo. Siple, who leaves for Memphis, Tenn., tonight to attend a Scout conference, said he planned to be back at college Friday since he had taken so many cuts he was "dogged close to the danger line." He is taking 24 hours of work a week. After autographing a copy of his book "A Boy Scout With Byrd," which he said he wrote himself, for the small son of M. N. Leavitt, field scout executive for the suburban district who with Nelson Cunniff, chairman of the Court of Honor and a group of Eagle Scouts, met him at the train, he prepared to pay a long anticipated visit to the reptile house at the zoo.

Fortified for his sightseeing program by a glass of orange juice and bottle of milk, his breakfast, he started for the Ellis Michael School for Crippled Children, where he made a brief talk. He received an airplane trophy at a luncheon meeting of the Exchange Club at the Mark Twain Hotel by Maj. James Doolittle, former army flyer.

JAMES E. WITHROW, FORMER JUDGE, DIES

Civil War Veteran, 87 Years Old, Succumbs to Pneumonia in Hospital.

James Edgar Withrow, a Civil War veteran and a former Circuit Judge for 24 years, died yesterday of pneumonia at St. Luke's Hospital. He was 87 years old and resided at 4510 Pershing avenue.

Judge Withrow was born in Rushville, Ill., May 22, 1843. He came to St. Louis in 1865 after serving through the Civil War with the Seventy-eighth Illinois Volunteer Infantry. He was senior vice commander of the Ransom Post, G. A. R.

He was admitted to the bar in St. Louis in 1868 and four years later married Miss Adelaide Partridge. He served on the Circuit Bench for 24 years, retiring about 15 years ago to devote himself to the private practice of law. During his tenure as Circuit Judge he was known for his opposition to a whipping post bill, which was later defeated.

Despite a severe cold, he had visited his offices in the National Bank of Commerce Building almost daily until last Tuesday. He is survived by a son, Edgar P. Withrow, engineer in charge of the Municipal testing laboratory. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the residence. Burial will take place in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Rail Spending Aids Business

A Message from
L. A. Downs, President
Illinois Central System.

When the railroads' spending power is curtailed, everyone else's earning power is unfavorably affected. Prosperous railroads are therefore essential to general prosperity.

The railroads have been subsisting on a restricted diet. In the best of recent years, despite economical management, their margin of net earnings has been extremely small. Hence recent revenue losses have forced them to reduce their spending drastically.

A sound program for general prosperity must provide a permanent betterment of this condition. If the railroads can increase their margin of net earnings in good times, they will not need to resort to such extreme reductions of spending in dull times.

The railroads cannot be a major factor in stabilizing business if they are forced to operate year after year on a too narrow margin of net earnings.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

Chicago, May 1, 1931

The purchases of this railroad, made principally in the territory in which it operates, have long been strong supports of midwestern and southern business progress.

You'll have to pardon the on the eye of their first long swallow, doesn't make a spring, win a pennant and that there's tober. But nevertheless and not by Street and his men for being modest sort of way.

And why shouldn't the boys themselves and each other? Hasn't the pitching staff been performing brilliantly? It has. And hasn't the team shown a fine pinch, with hits delivered in pinches all up and down the line of the batting order. It has. And isn't Jim Bottomley having just what the doctor ordered—one of the best seasons of his career. If a fine start means anything? Yes, Dodderidge, he and if the Cardinals don't run in accidents, they're going to step on far, far ahead of the other National League teams.

Five Out of Six From the Cubs. As previously suggested, the Cardinals know that 11 victories in starts merely constitute an excellent start in the championship race. In all their modesty they don't overlook that they haven't been picking on any crumples, unless you put the Reds in that category. The Redbirds have scored four of the triumphs at the expense of the former Cincinnati club, but then they have been five victories in six starts against the tough Chicago Cubs and don't let anybody tell you that Rera Hornsby's batting. Bruins and anybody's puffy men.

Thirty-five thousand, eight hundred and ninety-two fans cannot wrong and they will tell you, after seeing the Cardinals nose out the Cubs in 11 innings yesterday afternoon, that Hornsby's men are rough and tough, but that what it takes to beat that roughness and toughness the Cardinals have.

It was a great ball game to see before a park full of cash customers. It couldn't have been better drama if it had been staged to give the customers something to cheer about early. The Cardinals' homecoming Guy Bush, the Mississippi Mudcat, for four runs in the first inning. Customers were scurrying hither and thither, trying to find a place to sit, when the scoreboard boy posted the big "W."

Four Down and Come to Go

It is the voice of the Rajah himself, saying: "We'll beat the Cardinals on the season's series of 22 games and by a good margin."

After the first six games of the season's cluster, the Chief Bearcat of the Cubs found himself four down and plenty to go, the score standing 5 to 1.

In order to break even Hornsby must win 10 games to the Cards 6. To win by a "good margin," a y four games the Cubs will have to take 12 of the remaining games to the Cards.

Well, they might do it—aid by a train wreck.

Whose Crown Is It?

DETROIT is trying to arrange for Tony Canzone to defeat one of the two titles which newspaper critics conferred on him after his victory over Rafter Berg—the junior welterweight.

There seems to have been doubts as to whether Tony is a right to two titles. Because Kid Berg weighed 140 pounds, when he was Canzone for the lightweight crown it was assumed that he was entitled to both the 140 and 155 pound championships.

The very pertinent question has been advanced that had Berg had to make only the B

Cards Have Day Off; Team Shows Pennant Power in Beating Cubs

By J. Roy Stockton.

You'll have to pardon the Cardinals if they are a little cocky on the eve of their first long road campaign. They know that one swallow doesn't make a spring, 11 victories out of 14 games don't win a pennant and that there's many a slip between May and October. But nevertheless and notwithstanding you must not chide Gabby Street and his men for being well pleased with themselves, in a modest sort of way.

And why shouldn't the boys like themselves and each other? Haven't the pitching staff been performing brilliantly? It has. And hasn't the team shown a fine punch, with base hits delivered in pinches all up and down the line of the batting order? It has. And isn't Jim Bottomley having just what the doctor ordered—one of the best seasons in his career, if a fine start means anything? Yes, Doderidge, he is, and if the Cardinals don't run into accidents, they're going to step out far, far ahead of the other National League teams.

Five out of six from the Cubs. As previously suggested, the Cardinals know that 11 victories in 14 starts merely constitute an excellent start in the championship race, but in all their modesty they don't overlook the fact that they haven't pitched as well as they have in the past. The Cardinals have scored four of their triumphs at the expense of the former Cincinnati club, but then there have been five victories in six starts against the Chicago Cubs and don't let anybody tell you that Rogers Hornsby's batting Bruins are anybody's put men.

Thirty-five thousand, eight hundred and ninety-two fans cannot be wrong and they will tell you, after seeing the Cardinals nose out these Cubs in 11 innings yesterday afternoon, that Hornsby's men are rough and tough, but that what it takes to beat that roughness and toughness the Cardinals have.

Cardinals Play In Pittsburgh Wednesday

THE Cardinals this afternoon will depart for Pittsburgh, where they will play an exhibition game with their farm boys.

Tomorrow is an open date and tomorrow evening the team will depart for Pittsburgh.

After four games with the Pirates the Cardinals will go East, playing two games at Philadelphia and three-game series in New York, Brooklyn and Boston.

On their way home they will stop at Cincinnati for a series, returning to Sportsman's Park May 26.

and the Cardinals were stopped. Jackie held Street's men to two hits, and while they were thus helpless, the Cubs kept pecking away at Plint Rhean and finally a throw to the plate that bounced unfortunately enabled the tying run to cross the plate in the seventh inning.

Paul Derringer, the strapping young right-hander from Rochester, and Sheriff "Fred" Blake, a veteran right-hander with a whitening fast ball, did the pitching after that, and Blake was so good that the Cards were the underdogs in the struggle until they finally bunched two singles in the eleventh inning and then pulled the ancient but useful squeeze play out of the moth balls and nudged the winning run over the plate.

Derringer was in tubs and tubs of hot water before he emerged as victor, and the young man certainly proved to the satisfaction of the packed stands that he had

FRANZ, WINNER OF FIVE TITLES, STAR OF STATE SHOOTING EVENT

By W. J. McGoogan.

Oscar B. Franz, St. Louis trap shooter, today is in possession of five championships which he won in the fourth annual Missouri State shoot which was completed at the St. Louis Gun Club yesterday.

Franz won the doubles, class A and handicap trapshoots in which clay pigeons are used as targets. In addition he won the "flyer" championship and the handicap "flyer" title. In the last-named events live pigeons were used as targets.

In addition to Franz's sweep of five championships, St. Louis shooters won six of the eight other competitions. Fred Wilmas captured the singles championship, Peter Baggerman won the class B title, while Art Killam, St. Louis professional, won the handicap, singles and doubles professional championships. The Eastern Zone team won the team title.

Only one major and one minor championship escaped the grasp of St. Louisans. Mrs. J. M. Scott of Kansas City won the women's title, defeating Mrs. Mahlon B. Wallace Jr., St. Louis, while B. M. Harwood, Kansas City, won the class C title.

Two St. Louisans won places on the five-man team to represent Missouri in the Grand American trapshoot to be contested at Vandalia, O., in August. They were Fred Wilmas and Franz. The other members are Ben Steigemeier and E. J. Boenker, St. Charles, and J. M. Cherry, Kansas City.

Franz won the class A title yesterday with 98 out of 100 and the handicap tournament with 95 out of 100. Baggerman took class B honors with 94 out of 100, while Harwood won in class C, also with 94 out of 100. Killam scored 87 out of 100 in the professional division.

Mark Aris, veteran Champagnell, Ill., star, led the field of about 60 shooters, breaking 98 targets out of 100 in the morning and 96 out of 100 in the afternoon. Aris, however, was not eligible for the State shoot and his victories brought him only money awards which go with the winning of sweepstakes.

The 1932 tournament will be held at Kansas City.

SCHMELING TO FINISH EXHIBITION TOUR AT CHICAGO THIS WEEK

CHICAGO, May 4.—Max Schmeling, world's heavyweight champion, will terminate his exhibition tour by appearing at the Chicago Stadium Friday night. Matchmaker Kate Levin announced last night. Schmeling will box four rounds against two sparring partners on the Young Jack Thompson-Bucky Lawless card.

It will be the last public appearance, Lewis said, for the champion until he opens his training camp in Cleveland the latter part of next week to begin training for his title bout with W. L. (Young) Stribling.

72 CARS ARE ENTERED IN 500-MILE EVENT

INDIANAPOLIS, May 4.—With the receipt today of the entry of Carl Smith of Brooklyn, N. Y., the field for the annual 500-mile automobile race here May 30 was increased to 72. The 40 fastest cars were permitted to start.

Smith will drive his own car, which bears his name. Entries closed midnight May 1, but those mailed before that hour are being accepted by the speedway.

Thirty cars, 48 out of 50, at the track or in machine shops being built for the race here. Others are expected in Indianapolis during the week.

MRS. MOODY MAY PLAY IN WIMBLEDON EVENT

LONDON, May 4.—Mrs. D. E. Larcombe, secretary of the All-England Tennis Club, today received a letter from Mrs. Helen Wills Moody of Berkeley, Cal., indicating she may come to England for the Wimbledon tennis championships to defend the title she has held since 1927.

Mrs. Moody previously had announced her intention of playing only in tournaments in the United States this year.

ST. LOUISAN PLACES SECOND IN PIN EVENT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 4.—Chalking up a total of 1357, Charley Daw, former national match game champion, topped the field of 298 bowlers in the seventeenth annual Petersen individual bowling classic concluded here late last night. The Milwaukee veteran, who finished second in the final chapters of the tourney at Buffalo, came through in the final game to pass Mitt Weinstein, St. Louis, by a margin of 22 pins. First prize netted Daw $1500, as well as a $500 diamond medal.

It was a tough break for Weinstein. The St. Louis star was considered "in" until Charley Daw out bowled him in the final frame of the last game, but "went the route" to nose Weinstein out of $900.

Otto Stein Jr. and Ray Holmes were shoved down eight places on the final squads. Stein finished in eleventh berth with 1651, cashing $130, while Holmes, one pin back, cashed $125.

DOLLY'S BABY BEST IN PIMICO OPENING RACE

PIMICO, Md., May 4.—

Twelve juveniles from the plater division ran in the first race, a four and one-half furlong sprint, here this afternoon. Dolly's Baby was returned the winner when she beat out Bad Axe by a length. Westvily landed in third place, with Dress Doll in command of the others.

Bad Axe carried the most support and he flattered his backers by taking command at the start. He led until entering the home stretch, where Dolly's Baby assumed command under a drive to register by a length.

A Robertson was astride the winner, which covered the distance in :54.5-5 and paid $7.50 for $2.

14 AMERICAN GOLFERS ENTER BRITISH AMATEUR

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 1.—Fourteen Americans are among the 171 entries announced today for the British amateur golf championship beginning at Westward Ho May 18, but only one of them is given much chance by the experts of retaining for America the little Bobby Jones won last year.

The outstanding American entry is George Voigt, New York golfing master, who, even though he is good, very, very good and entirely capable of walking off with the hon-

Volg's first round opponent is W. H. E. Bowman of Seacroft, who should afford little difficulty if the American plays at Westward Haze like he played at St. Andrews last year, when he gave Bobby Jones a great battle in the semi-finals.

If Volg should fall by the way-side there still is a good chance that the cup would go back to America, but it would be in British hands. Cyril James Hastings, a Texan, who now lives in the United States, is expected to reach the tournament, but he plays under the colors of the Royal and Ancient Club of St. Andrews and his victory would cause no glee in the United States.

ennant Punch f 6 From Cubs faith in Derringer and it wasn't misplaced. Hack took a couple of swings, made some nasty faces at Umpire Quigley and finally ground out harmlessly to Frisch to end the inning.

And that was the Cubs' final big opportunity of the afternoon, as Derringer turned back with little difficulty in the tenth and eleventh.

Frisch singled to open the home-eleventh, streaked to third on Bot-tomley's third hit, a single to right and scored the winning run when Charley Gelbert dropped an excel-lent squeeze play put between Blake and Grimm. Hornsby fielded the ball and heaved it home, but it was just an orthodox gesture, for Frisch easily beat Rogers' throw and the game was over.

Cardinals Notes.
During their first stand at home the Cards won six out of eight games. They won the only contest of the Red series, broke even with the Pirates in four, and made a clean sweep of the three-game struggle with the Cubs.

George Watkins was put out of the game for making uncomplimentary remarks after being called out on strikes in the sixth inning. Pepper Martin shifted to left field, Orsatti to right and Taylor Douthett went to center.

Gabby Hartnett hit a home run in the fifth, after Stephenson had walked. It was the second hit off Rheim.

Woody English played a great game at short for the Cubs. His best play of a brilliant afternoon was his diving capture of Frisch's line drive in the eighth inning.

STARS DEFEAT DETROIT IN DOUBLE HEADER

The St. Louis Stars took a lead from the book of the Cardinals and scored a clean sweep in their three-game series, by taking both ends of a double-header from the Detroit Stars yesterday afternoon at Stars' Park, 21-1 and 13-1. The St. Louis Stars also won the series opener, Saturday.

KILLS FRIEND'S WIFE AND THEN ENDS OWN LIFE

E. C. Kistler Shoots Mrs.
 Margaret Blackburn Three Times in Yard of Home Near Stephens, Mo.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
 FULTON, Mo., May 4.—Mrs.
 Margaret Blackburn, 55 years old, wife of a coal miner, was shot and killed Saturday night at her home near Stephens, 18 miles northwest of here, by Ernest C. Kistler, 63-year-old widower, who took his own life.
 Kistler was seen by his father,
 Amos, 80 years old, standing behind a tree in the yard of the Blackburn home.
 The shooting occurred a short time later when Mrs. Blackburn went to a spring house with milk. She was wounded three times in the neck and abdomen by bullets from a .32-caliber revolver, and died within a few minutes.
 Apparently not having any more ammunition for the revolver, Kistler went to the home of a relative, a quarter of a mile away, and borrowed a shotgun. He then went to his own home nearby and shot himself in the head, tripping the trigger with a branch broken from a tree.
 There is no known motive for the killings. Kistler and Mrs. Black-burn's husband Charles were warm friends. The elder Kistler owned the house in which the Blackburns resided and Mrs. Blackburn looked after Kistler's 8-year-old daughter.
 As a result of this arrangement Kistler was frequently at the Blackburn home. Friends expressed the opinion that Kistler had become temporarily insane and killed Mrs.
 Blackburn over some fancied grievance. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

FLYER, 18, MAKES UNOFFICIAL MARK OF 20,000 FEET IN TEST
 Attempt Is in Preparation for Trial for New Record Next Sunday.

Harold Hill, 18-year-old Wichita (Kan.) pilot, flew a Curtiss-Wright Junior powered with a three-cylinder engine to an unofficial altitude of 20,000 feet at Curtiss-Steinberg Airport, on the East Side, yesterday.
 Maj. C. Ray Wassall, chief pilot for Curtiss-Wright here, went to 18,000 feet in a second Junior, which has a model A Ford engine.
 Maj. Wassall said on landing that,
 with minor adjustments, he thought the Ford engine would carry the ship to a much higher altitude.
 Both pilots required about an hour for the ascent.
 The flights were made in preparation for attempts to break the light plane altitude record of 19, 500 feet made recently at Detroit, Mich. Weather permitting, the attempt to set the record will be made next Sunday afternoon under the auspices of the National Aeronautic Association.

YANKEE WHALING CAPTAIN DIES
 H. C. Hathaway Helped Irish Fleet Escape From Australia.
 By the Associated Press.
 NEW BEDFORD, Mass., May 4.—
 Capt. Henry C. Hathaway, rescued of John Boyle O'Reilly, died last night at the age of 90. A native of New Bedford, he went to sea when 15. Two years later, while fourth officer of the whaling bark Gazelle, he assisted in the escape of the Irish poet and later pulled him from the water when a whaling boat smashed up.
 O'Reilly had fled from a penal colony in Australia and was picked up by the Gazelle. British officers sought O'Reilly on shipboard and the whale men dumped a grindstone overboard and threw O'Reilly's hat after it. The British were informed the poet had jumped overboard. The poet later dedicated one of his volumes of verse to the captain.

and Hunt roads with one driven by J. M. Briggs, 5320 Oakdale avenue,
Pine Lawn.

Van Pelt and his companion,
James Allen, 3423 Commonwealth avenue, Maplewood, were thrown from their machine, which continued on and crashed into on operated by W. L. Sullivan, Ferguson.
Sullivan was not hurt.

Van Pelt, a publicity agent, 24 years old, suffered an injury of the spine; Allen, 24, cuts and bruises; Briggs, 50, foreman of a can company, a skull injury, and his wife, 42, a broken knee cap.

The injured were taken to Dr.
Tiemann's Hospital in Pine Lawn.
Later Van Pelt was removed to the Paul Hospital.

Van Pelt was driving south in Lucas and Hunt road and Briggs east in Natural Bridge road. Sullivan had stopped his car at the intersection and was preparing to turn into Natural Bridge road.

Three men were injured when their automobile upset at Louisiana avenue and Arsenal street as the driver swerved to avoid a collision with another automobile.
They are: Clement Mullin, 4651
Marmaduke avenue, fractured skull and arm; George A. Cook, 3013 Gravois avenue, fractured skull;
Albert Renow, 2013 Lafayette avenue, cuts and bruises. The other machine was driven by Oliver Weigel, a student, 4261 Marfitt av-

SCHOOL CHILDREN VISIT EXPOSITION ON HALF HOLIDAY

Dances, Gymnastic Drills and Band Concerts Features of Today's Program at The Arena.

Children of St. Louis public schools had a half holiday today to enable them to attend the Mississippi Valley Exposition at The Arena, 5700 Oakland avenue. Entertainment features were to be presented this afternoon by children of elementary schools and tonight the bands of Beaumont, Central and Soldan high schools will play.

Sponsors of the exposition, which opened Friday and will continue through Sunday, urged holders of tickets purchased in advance to use them as soon as possible to avoid overcrowding during the last days. More than 100,000 tickets were sold in advance and about 72,000 of these have not yet been used.

The exposition, a revival of the old St. Louis fair, presents a cross-section of the manufactured products of the Mississippi Valley together with civic and educational exhibits.

The afternoon entertainment program, arranged by George L.
Hawkins, assistant superintendent of schools, included a concert at 2:30 o'clock by an orchestra of 115 pupils of South Side School, a group of dances by girl students of the fifth grade at Shenandoah School, and physical training demonstrations by first grade students at Woodward School and boys of the eighth grade at Gardenville School.

The Beaumont High School band will open the evening entertainment and gymnastic drills by students of that school will follow. The glee club of Soldan High School will sing after the performance by the band of that school. Central High School band will bring the performance to a close.

A stage for the entertainment programs given by school children has been erected in the west building of the Arena group, near the Board of Education Exhibit.

The Louisiana State Department of Conservation has installed motion picture apparatus at its exhibit and presents programs each afternoon at 4 o'clock. Forestry and its development in Louisiana is the subject of the first picture.

Other entertainment features presented daily are the concerts in afternoon and evening by the bagpipe band of the Forty-eighth Canadian Highlanders, and loop-ing-the-loop by Oscar Babcock on a bicycle. In addition there are two orchestras, and strolling players.

DENIES MOTION TO VACATE CHOUTEAU APTS. RECEIVERSHIP

Judge Hartmann Holds Special Notice Was Not Necessary For Appointment.

A motion to vacate the receivership of the Pierre Chouteau Apartments, 4449 Lindell boulevard, was overruled by Circuit Judge Hartmann today.

The motion was filed by two insurance companies which guaranteed the interest on the bonds.
The petition stated that a receiver was appointed without legal notice having been given, and contends further that receivership is unnecessary and is not desired by bondholders.

Hartmann held that the appointment of a receiver without special notice is authorized under the terms of the mortgage. M. M. Reynolds was appointed receiver several weeks ago after a mechanic's lien was filed against the company operating the apartments.

THREE MEN RESCUED WHEN BOAT CAPSIZES IN RIVER

Watchman for Wiggins Ferry Co.
Saves Them After They Cling to Upturned Craft.

Three men, who were thrown into the water when their speed-boat capsized in the Mississippi River, between the Eads and Municipal bridges, late yesterday, were rescued by Herman Abel, a watchman for the Wiggins Ferry Co.

Then men were: George Seibert, owner of the boat; Douglas Jemup,
a cattleman, and Edgar Tierman, all of East St. Louis. The mishap, caused by turning the boat at high speed, occurred near the Illinois shore. The men clung to the upturned boat until Abel reached them in a skiff. The boat was recovered.

TRADE INCREASES ONLY IN RUSSIA SURVEY REPORTS

INDUSTRIAL BOARD ISSUES REVIEW

Possibility of Opening Up New Consumer Markets in Undeveloped Countries Is Suggested.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 4.—The fundamental difficulty of the world at the present time, as diagnosed by the National Industrial Conference Board in a study of "Major Forces in World Business Depression," just released for publication, seems to lie in the existence of excess productive capacity in many countries side by side with the existence of low consuming power in other extensive areas thickly populated and rich in natural resources, the people of which are in a state of poverty and living on a bare subsistence.

In short, the root of trouble is essentially lack of balance between world production and world consumption.

The world depression will be the leading subject of discussion at the sessions of the International Chamber of Commerce which began today at Washington. The National Industrial Conference Board issued its study of the major forces in world depression at this time in the hope that this survey may prove to be a useful contribution to the deliberations of the International Chamber of Commerce, offering a broad basis for detailed discussion.

Factors in Depression.

The conference board's study is confined to an examination of the principal factors that have contributed to bring about the prevailing world-wide depression of business and a statement of the effects in different countries. No attempt is made to appraise the basic causes of the depression, much less to propose either a general remedy for world life or special cures for specific troubles.

The major forces in world business depression, as classified by the conference board, are as follows:

(a) Economic Forces.

1. Overproduction.

2. Unemployment.

(b) Commercial.

1. Declining export prices.

2. Reduced export markets.

(c) Financial.

1. Currency and exchange difficulties.

2. Credit stringency.

(d) Internal and external debts.

(e) Heavy taxation of business.

(f) Political Forces.

1. Faulty public economic policies.

2. Internal political difficulties.

3. External political difficulties.

The principal force in the world-wide business depression is found to be unbalanced production; that is, lack of balance between production and consumption. In determining what countries have been affected by overproduction, the conference board is not the total production of any one country, but the total world output of the commodities in question. Overproduction has affected most seriously the countries that depend mainly on agriculture and other primary industries. In the industrial countries unemployment is a potent and dangerous contributory force in the depression. It represents an enormous loss in purchasing power and unused labor capacity. It adds to the burden of taxation to meet unemployment insurance and relief expenditures; and it is an uncertain and unsettling influence in the political situation.

Russia in Favorable Condition.

All countries with the exception of Russia have suffered from declining export prices and reduced export markets. The foreign trade of all countries, representing 60 per cent of total world trade, as measured by the total value of imports and exports, declined about 20 per cent from 1929 to 1930. Russia alone showed an increase in the value of both imports and exports. In 1930, the increase in imports amounted to 28 per cent, and that in exports to 14 per cent. The conference board states that the ability of Russia to increase its foreign trade in 1930 in the face of world-wide depression was due not to the greater efficiency of the Soviet economic system, but to the very low scale of its foreign requirements. The Russian worker and peasant are forced to accept and to monopolistic control over foreign and internal commerce exercised by the Government, which enables it to sell abroad at any price, regardless of costs of production or losses incurred in the exchange.

Financial difficulties in one form or another, chiefly credit stringency and public indebtedness, are serious obstacles to business recovery.

The supply of credit is inadequate and interest rates are very high in many countries. Enormous domestic and foreign debts and excessive taxation impose a staggering burden on industry and trade in many parts of the world.

Failures of Politics.

Political forces, including faulty public economic policies and internal and external political difficulties, are perhaps as important as economic forces in contributing to the depression of business throughout the world. They are especially important in their influence on finance, impeding the flow of capital among the different countries.

Extravagant and careless expenditure of public funds, excessive public borrowings, attempts at price-fixing and other arbitrary interference with the orderly process of production and distribution, and costly experiments in social reform are disturbing influences in the economic life of many countries.

Wars, revolutions, and national rivalries retard the development of natural resources, the international distribution of capital and credit, and the growth of world trade. The reluctance to lend money abroad has been due primarily to the fact that French and American investors felt that investment in foreign securities was too hazardous because of unsatisfactory political conditions. Political action has placed Russia in a state of isolation. It has built between Russia and the rest of the world a barrier of suspicion and fear, which represents a serious handicap to normal business relations and international peace.

The conference board's survey of the world business depression brings out strikingly the close economic interdependence of nations. The low level of economic life and

Ten 'Most Outstanding' St. Louis Women Chosen By Committee of Men

Vote Conducted by Women's Advertising Club Which Holds Luncheon for the Group Selected—None Chosen Unanimously.

Nine of 10 most outstanding St. Louis women, chosen in a poll of representative men conducted by the Women's Advertising Club, were guests of the club at luncheon today at Hotel Statler. The 10 outstanding women are:

Miss Lillie Ernst, education.

Mrs. George Gellhorn, women's suffrage.

Miss Lillie R. Ernst, education.

Mrs. Frank V. Hammar, Red Cross.

Mrs. Edwin H. Steedman, social work.

Mrs. David Kriegshaber, music.

Mrs. Kathryn Cherry, art.

Mrs. Oscar Johnson, charities.

Mrs. Nat Brown, civic and children's work.

The only one absent from the luncheon was Mrs. George Gellhorn, whose mother was celebrating her eighty-first birthday. In her absence the president, Miss Marian Denyren, read an account of her career.

Those who were present made brief addresses of appreciation, especially as Mrs. Brown expressed it, "to my unknown gentlemen friends." Each declared herself honored to be included with the other nine. Several expressed surprise at being chosen, followed, declared Mrs. Steedman, by curiosity as to the reason for the choice. One of the 10 winners, Mrs. Proetz, is a member of the Women's advertising club.

None of the 102 voters chose the entire list. One named seven of the 10 women, and many lists included four or five of them. In all 167 women were mentioned and 90 of them received one vote each.

Voters included representative business men, doctors, lawyers, politicians, editors, artists, musicians, educators and the heads of organizations. They were asked to name the 10 women, in any field, whom they considered most prominent in St. Louis.

Many of the men, prior to the death of Mrs. Philip North Moore last week, mentioned her civic leadership on their ballots. St. Louis women of national reputation were included, including Fannie Hurst and Temple Bailey, writers; Nancy Cosman Hahn, sculptor, and Elda Vettori, Metropolitan Opera soprano.

A "who's who" of the 10 women chosen follows:

Mrs. Elias Michael, 4233 Westminster place, led the ticket for re-election to the Board of Education last April, after eight years of service, with appointment to fill an unexpired term. She is a member of the Council of Jewish Women, honorary member of the Junior League and Town Club, and has served as chairman of the Jewish Day Nursery, vice president of the Children's Aid Society, member of the Library Board, the Council for National Defense and the Executive Committee of the social work department in Washington University School of Medicine.

Mrs. George Gellhorn, 4366 McPerson avenue, pioneer woman suffrage worker, was named largely on the League of Women Voters' national roll of honor as "Missouri's most valuable citizen." Since the establishment of John Bur-

SENATOR WATSON REPLIES TO BARNES ON HAWLEY TARIFF

G. O. P. Leader Asks if Purchase of Goods by Americans Would Put Idle Men to Work.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The administration's new tariff act was defended yesterday by Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, in reply to the plea before the United States Chamber of Commerce by Julius H. Barnes, its chairman, for lower rates.

Senator Watson, in a formal statement, asked Barnes if he believed greater importations from abroad would help employment in this country and called upon him to specify desired changes in the tariff law.

"Last year," said Watson, "we imported into the United States $4,000,000,000 worth of foreign products and we had millions of idle workmen in America. Barnes takes the position that if we had imported twice or three times the amount we did, all of those American laboring men would have been put back to work and would have had full employment."

"66 Per Cent of Imports Free."

"Let me remind Mr. Barnes of a few essential truths:

"First, that 66 per cent of all we bring into this country comes in free. There is no way to lower the tariff on those products. Nothing can be freer than free, unless Mr. Barnes wants to pay a bonus to our foreign competitors who sell to us."

"Second, we import over $200,000,000 of luxuries which everybody admits should be taxed to obtain revenue."

"Third, a comparison of the rates in the present law on the remaining 32 per cent of imports with the rates provided by the Fordney-McCumber law shows no great number of increases and proves that those that were increased resulted beneficially."

"Take for instance, textiles, the manufacturer of which has been helped by the present tariff. Does Mr. Barnes want to repeal that tariff in order that we may buy our textiles abroad and again close factories in New England and North Carolina in order to help the foreigner?"

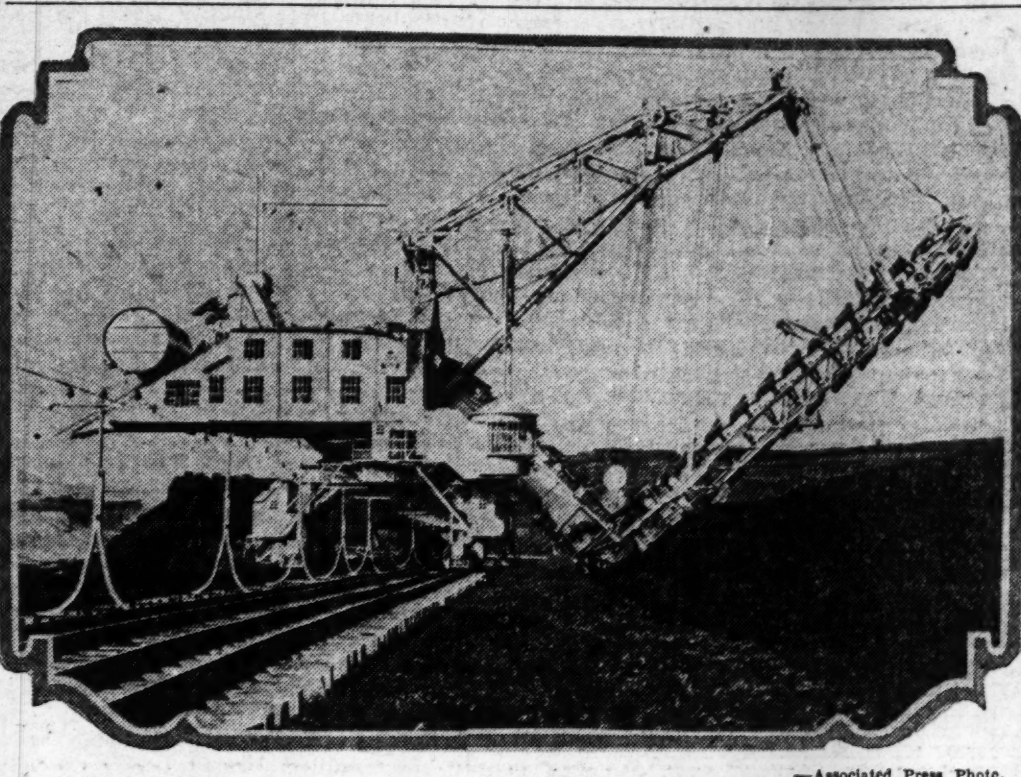

"Fourth, most civilized countries have protective tariff laws, many of them higher than most of the rates provided by our law. If we greatly lowered our tariff rates, while they steadfastly maintained theirs, how are the American people to be benefited? Such an assertion is utterly groundless."

"More Generalization."

"Fifth, Mr. Barnes' statement is a mere generalization. He states that 'the existing tariff should be lowered,' but such a potshot at a whole tariff bill is neither illuminating nor helpful. Will Mr. Barnes enlighten us a little further? What rates should be lowered and why? Even a few concrete instances might prove beneficial."

"Let me remind Mr. Barnes that there is no tariff on exports from America. Other people are just as

Germany's Contribution to the Machine Age

EXCAVATOR recently put into service in the coal pits near Halle, Germany.

free to buy of us now as if we had no tariff. Then why don't they? Foreign nations do not buy of us because they love us, but because they can get what they want here a little better and a little cheaper than they can get it anywhere else, and even this possibility would be destroyed if our tariff laws were abrogated, or even greatly reduced, because they have been largely responsible for bringing about such a situation in America that we can produce on a tremendous scale to a greater advantage than can be done elsewhere in the world."

AIR TOURISTS CRASH IN PERSIA

Mrs. Edward Montagu and Pilot Escape Without Injury.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 4.—In a cable last night to the London Daily Express, Mrs. Edward Montagu, who took off from here March 27 on a 600-mile flight through Russia and Persia, says her plane crashed and burned yesterday at Meshed, Persia.

She and her pilot, Rupert Bellville, young amateur flyer, were pulled from the wreck without a burn or a scratch, she says. Mrs. Montagu is the widow of a former Secretary of State for India. She received special permission from the Soviet Government to make her air tour of Russia.

HINDENBURG AT BEER PARTY

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 4.—President Paul von Hindenburg attended a beer party Saturday night at the home of the Bavarian Minister to Berlin, Conrad von Preger, where the famous May beer foam foamed in large tankards.

Many prominent persons, including several artists, attended the function. They included Wilhelm Groener, Minister of Defense, Dr. Julius Curtius, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and Heinrich Sahn, Berlin's new Mayor. The President slipped the beer with moderation and went home early.

NAUTILUS LEAVES FOR DIVING TESTS

Goes Up the Hudson to Poughkeepsie for Fresh Water Trials.

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS (Copyright, 1931.)

ABOARD SUBMARINE NAUTILUS, May 4.—Snugly anchored in Croton Bay, near Poughkeepsie, the Nautilus spent its first night unattended since it was turned over by the Shipping Board to the expedition. Anchor watch was set at 9 p. m.

Tired from a strenuous day of successful testing, the crew cleared the decks and swung their berths for a well-earned sleep.

Under the command of their experienced and capable skipper, Lieutenant-Commander Sloan Danaher, they are shaping up extremely well, and everything looks promising for a successful series of diving tests.

The Nautilus pulled out from the New York Engineering Co. dock in Tonkers at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon and headed up the river toward Poughkeepsie. After proceeding for a few miles the engines were stopped and various parts of the equipment tested.

The hoisting winches were turned over, the anchor dropped and the electrical steering gear adjusted.

After a final hot meal the crew started the engines again and the trip up the river was resumed.

It is possible that the craft's first submergence in fresh water will be made today.

The Nautilus probably will be ready next week to go to New London, Conn., for deep sea diving tests. Following these, speed tests

LEGISLATURE ENDS WITH COMPROMISE ON TWO MEASURES

Appropriation of $355,000 for Highway Patrol and $155,000 for Fire Insurance Case Approved.

DEADLOCK BROKEN AFTER 14 HOURS

Recess Taken Rather Than Adjournment Because of Brunk Impeachment Trial.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 4.—Adoption by both houses of the Legislature of joint conference committee reports on two appropriation measures ended a deadlock shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning and finished the legislative duties of this Assembly. Appropriations of $355,000 for the State highway patrol and $155,000 in attorney fees for Floyd Jacobs and John T. Barker were voted by both houses.

An eleven-hour fight by opponents of the State highway patrol bill, recently passed by both houses and signed by the Governor, to block creation of an effective force, at least until 1932, by preventing the appropriation of funds for the force, made the night session necessary.

The opposition developed when the House members of a joint conference committee of both houses made its report on the highway appropriation bill, which carried $355,000 for the patrol force for part of this year and all of 1932. The Senate had amended the original House appropriation bill to provide $475,000 for the force, but the bill was thrown into conference to iron out numerous other Senate amendments. The conference Committee recommended cutting the amount to $355,000.

The patrol bill authorized a force of 115 patrolmen, 10 Captains and a superintendent. It was estimated the appropriation of $475,000 proposed by the Senate would provide for 50 patrolmen, the 10 Captains and the superintendent, and equip them, including motor equipment.

Fight on Patrol Budget.

The patrol law will not become effective until 90 days after final adjournment of the Legislature, following the impeachment trial of State Treasurer Larry Brunk. The appropriation for this biennial period therefore would apply only to the latter part of this year and all of 1932.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and against every form of injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether in predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Gov. Emmerson and Nullification.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

GOV. EMMERSON, in his veto message regarding prohibition, charged the Legislature and the people of Illinois with a course of action which was in substance nullification of the federal act, but W. G. J. in this column forcefully supported the Governor, saying that "our courageous Governor denied the right of the State of Abraham Lincoln to secede." The Governor used the harsher term, rebellion.

W. G. J. contends that the eighteenth amendment is mandatory upon both Congress and the states, while I contend that the clause, "The Congress and the several states shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation," is a reservation of power by the states. I further insist that the Governor misunderstands the significance of the term nullification, as does his defender. Today the term is obsolete in practice, but it should not be misapplied.

The popularly elected theory today is that the U. S. Supreme Court alone has the final power to determine what the Constitution is and is not in all matters dealing with the states and with all the branches of the Federal Government. Earlier theories contended that this power was shared with the states and with the President. The assertion on the part of the states was called nullification. This right was asserted or implied by the Virginia and Kentucky resolutions.

drawn up by Madison and Jefferson in 1798; again it was asserted by the New England states during the War of 1812; successfully by South Carolina in 1832-3; and finally in 1835 by the Wisconsin Legislature. According to Beveridge, "Lincoln" II, p. 465, nullification "was for a while a prime article of the Republican creed."

None of these men and none of these states refused to obey the Constitution; they refused to permit the Constitution, as they understood it, to be violated. When the State of Illinois attempts to interpret the Constitution in contradiction to the authorities of the Federal Government, then and not till then will it use that ancient method called nullification.

More pertinent is the question whether there is a legal obligation upon the states to pass prohibition enforcement legislation. The states in the beginning severally had the sole right to legislate as to prohibition. By the eighteenth amendment in 1919 they made prohibition a Federal law, reserving for themselves the "power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation." Since prohibition is a Federal law, the obligation to pass enforcement legislation lies upon Congress; there is no state obligation to pass legislative powers of the several states must be put into force to support a Federal law. Assuming that the U. S. Supreme Court has the sole final determination of this question, it is one not yet decided.

Gov. Emmerson may have prevented the secession of the people of Illinois, but his work is not yet complete. The people of New York, Maryland, Nevada and Wisconsin have already seceded. They comprise more than 17,000,000 people — more than seceded in 1860 and more than all the people of the United States in 1940 and over one-seventh of all the people of the United States today. Let him bring mandamus proceedings against the New York and Maryland Legislatures, and let him bring similar proceedings against the peoples of Montana, of Arizona and of California, where the initiative and referendum are in force. It will be a glorious sight to see the bayonets of the U. S. Army herding 3,000,000 men and women to the polls to force them to vote themselves back into the Union.

And so will Gov. Emmerson be greater than Jackson and greater than Lincoln by combining within his own person the greatness of Jackson, of Lincoln and of Wayne B. Wheeler.

The P. S. C.'s Old Army Game.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE management of the Public Service Co., having exhausted every other effort to obtain the term franchise, now resorts to the old army game of roading its employees to call a strike. This has been done by announcing that there will be a conditional wage cut. No doubt the union members will strike if a cut is made. After the public has been worked up over the prospect of a street car tie-up, some "public-spirited" men will step forward and say that the P. S. C. must be given a franchise so that it can borrow money with which to meet its fixed charges, and that if the franchise is given, the P. S. C. will not have to make a wage cut.

This is the game that has been worked by the Milton crowd in the East, and it is the game the Newspan crowd hopes to work here. After the P. S. C. gets its franchise, it will try to unload on the investing public, make a big cleanup financially and let the investors and the public hold the bag. Will this sort of thing be permitted by the people of this city?

CITIZEN.

MR. BORAH AND THE BUREAUS.

Answering Mr. Hoover's demand for reduced congressional appropriations to prevent higher taxes, Senator Borah says it is the fixed cost of our many Federal bureaus and not the appropriations of Congress that makes government so expensive.

The Idaho Senator points out that in the last 10 years Congress has cut budget estimates by $414,000,000, whereas Federal appropriations have grown from $1,095,000,000 in 1914 to $4,821,274,000 in 1931. All this, he says, despite the "sincere effort to cut down expenditures," made by Mr. Coolidge. It is a system, and an immensely cumulative one. There is a degree to which it is unavoidable. Few of us would care to assert that the Government ought not to exercise supervision over transportation, that the Interstate Commerce Commission does, or continue vigilant in defense of the public health, as the Bureau of Animal Industry is now doing in St. Louis in its insistence that meats should be inspected; or join with the states in the building of roads; or administer the public lands and parks; or that the Government should not defend agriculture against invading insects, protect the fisheries and the seal herds, and do a thousand and one things that are for the benefit of the country. That popular indignation which Mr. Borah foresees will rise against a great Federal bureaucracy will not, in our opinion, rise against the beneficent works of the Government, which not only supplement the work of the states but oftentimes supply their omissions.

The true case, and the one against which the people are already rising, is against those unnecessary excrescences of government which often invade the states but accomplish nothing. Mr. Borah is himself an ardent supporter of the most flagrant of these, the prohibition bureau. The prohibition bureau is a heavy contributor to those excessive costs which he ascribes to executive departments. According to estimates by the House Appropriations Committee, the expenses of government attributable to prohibition enforcement are about $40,000,000 annually. This includes over $11,000,000 appropriated to Director Woodcock's organization in the Department of Justice. It includes nearly $5,000,000 appropriated to the Industrial Alcohol Bureau in the Treasury Department. It also includes one-half the cost of the Coast Guard, the total cost of which is about $32,000,000 a year. The balance is made up of additional expenses which prohibition has laid upon customs service, district attorneys' offices and Federal courts throughout the country, and expenses imposed upon Federal penitentiaries. The estimate of $40,000,000 does not take account of the great loss to the Government in taxes on spirits, which is over half a billion a year.

The Farm Board falls in the same category. So too, at least to a degree, does the Wickersham commission. We have never meant to disparage all the works of the Wickersham commission, but we do feel that the money spent upon its prohibition inquiry was waste. Referring such a troublesome issue to it was sheer political artifice, the insincerity of which was proved by the report. The unpollitical and therefore valuable work of the commission, most of which is still to be reported, is something else. As to the Farm Board and its $500,000,000 revolving fund, the best that can be said of it is that it has been a losing gamble. Gambling is expensive for either individuals or governments. There is a vast difference in bureaus, and we must distinguish between those that are in their nature political, and therefore useless, and those that are utilitarian and sometimes scientific, a necessary corollary of government for the benefit of the governed.

It is true, as Senator Borah says, that Congress often whittles down budget estimates; but it is also true, as Congressman Wood, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, retorts, that Congress is constantly calling upon the executive departments for new expenditures, notably in the field of war pensions. As we have repeatedly shown, it is war, past and future, which is mainly responsible for keeping government expenses high. Payments for past wars and preparation for future war take nearly 70 cents of every dollar paid to the Government by the taxpayer. Apropos this vital fact, to which Mr. Hoover has often called attention, the last Congress, by large majorities in both houses, voted and Mr. Hoover approved $30,000,000 for the modernization of three old battleships.

Nevertheless, our bureaucracy needs pruning. We suggest that the next Congress list all the Federal bureaus and examine them for fruits. It will not take long to discover that we are spending an immense amount of money to no purpose at all. We do not need a popular uprising for that. It is a field in which Congress itself can very effectively rise.

INTRODUCING A NEW SUMMER RESORT.

That tall building at the northeast corner of Twelfth and Market has been discovered to be a charming place to spend the summer. It is true there will be no boating, tennis or golf, even of the miniature variety; but, thanks to an ingenious ventilating system, it will be cool and quiet. An ideal atmosphere, in short, for our two-story judge thinkers. In past years most of the Circuit Judges have knocked off jury trials around the middle of June until the first Monday in October. They have escaped from the thermometer to the Rockies, the seashore and the North. This year, of their own volition, they suggested the introduction of a bill advancing the fall term of court to the second Monday of September. The Legislature has passed it. Next summer, at least in the latter half of the month of September, the Civil Courthouse will make its debut as a summer resort.

SAVING ALASKA'S BEARS.

President Hoover's proclamation increasing the area of Katmai National Monument, Alaska, to 2,697,590 acres, almost double its present size, is good news for those interested in checking the disappearance of Alaska's giant brown bear. This is the largest of the bear species, attaining a weight up to 1,200 pounds. Considerable pressure had been brought in Alaska for the extermination of this unique species as dangerous to sheep and to settlers. A campaign by the magazine, Outdoor Life, effectively exploded the legend of the brown bear's carnivorous ferocity. It was shown that the "brownie" was primarily vegetarian and attacked human beings only when wounded or in defense of its cubs. Dogs are effective in protecting sheep herds from the occasional animal that goes on a meat diet. Alaska stands to gain more than she loses by this action, for hunting expeditions and tourists will be attracted to the Northern outpost. California has long regretted the extinction of her grizzlies, and the President's proclamation saves the Alaskan bear from a similar fate.

INVESTIGATE DIRECTOR KINNEY.

It was a foregone conclusion that the Illinois House Appropriations Committee would resort to the whitewash brush when an investigation of the State Finance Department's handling of State funds was referred to it.

The House is Republican—albeit by a faint majority. Garrett DeP. Kinney, Finance Director, is also a Republican and a member of that inner circle of political powers grouped about the standard of Gov. Emmerson. Incidentally, Kinney's failure to return interest on State funds held in his private account—an old if not an honored practice of Illinois officialdom—was also followed by Gov. Emmerson for 12 years when he was Secretary of State. An investigation of the failure of Mr. Kinney might prove more embarrassing to the Emmerson administration than is promised by the surface facts.

Consequently, the full approval by the committee of Mr. Kinney's way of doing business was to have been expected. Whether the House will let the matter drop there is another matter. The fact remains, regardless of the decision of the committee, that Mr. Kinney makes no return on State funds held in his bank accounts until checks are cleared and his collections are ready to turn into the treasury.

The fact remains that the banks in which he keeps his money pay interest on daily balances. It is also a fact that Secretary of State Stratton, with funds more difficult of banking than those held by Mr. Kinney, does turn over interest on his collections. He handed over to the State last year more than $17,000 so earned.

In these premises the Illinois House should take up Representative Howard Doyle's resolution, on which the committee made an adverse report last week. It should investigate Mr. Kinney's business methods thoroughly, forgetting politics, doing everything possible to increase State revenue. If the House can find any adequate explanation why Mr. Kinney draws no interest, while Mr. Stratton does, the voters have a right to know it.

FRANCOIS VILLON: 1431-1931.

Twice one week in his first spring the gallows of Paris took 62 lives. The hangman, when Francois de Montcorbier was born, was working overtime. As apple blossoms drifted across Normandy, the maid Jeanne from Domremy was burned at the stake. Wolves and people starved. Robber bands left their victims in roadside ditches. Men were tossed at the will of the wind, scorched black and bare in the sun. Ravens and rooks struck down at shivering heads. The end was a handful of churchyard dust. Death took them all, rich and poor, foolish and wise, priest and lay. Beauty fell in change and faultless faces grew wrinkled and gray. On pithouse tables the rogne-laureate shed tears to water his heart's tree of sad buds and bitter fruit. In dungeon cells he mourned for lovely Thais, Blanche, fair Heloise and la femme Isabeau. All that abided was the certainty of utter passing away. Five centuries are gone and his very tears and ballads have defied their theme. At least Villon lives on, bragging, whining, singing songs, his medieval Paris, thanks to him, preserved in lyric and rondel, forever secure from joining his own snows of yesteryear.

ASININE IS THE WORD.

The Milwaukee papers call it "asinine," referring to the action of the town's Supervisors. Having decided to buy some cars for the Sheriff's office, the specifications named Ford. The Supervisors changed the resolution to read "light cars," explaining that "we're helping the dry cause when we limit our purchase to Fords." Thus they officially register their opposition to Mr. Ford's well known prohibition sentiments.

The papers have chosen the right word. Still, the Supervisors, fishing out the legal term in quagmire, could cite abundant precedent for their decision. Dry leaders, individually, and the Anti-Saloon League, as an organization, have but one test for the fitness of public officials. Are they dry? If so, all else is forgotten or forgiven. In the censorious questionnaires with which they circulate candidates, those who profess the dry faith are pronounced blessed, those who are wet, or even moist, are condemned forthwith, and the people are everywhere urged to vote accordingly.

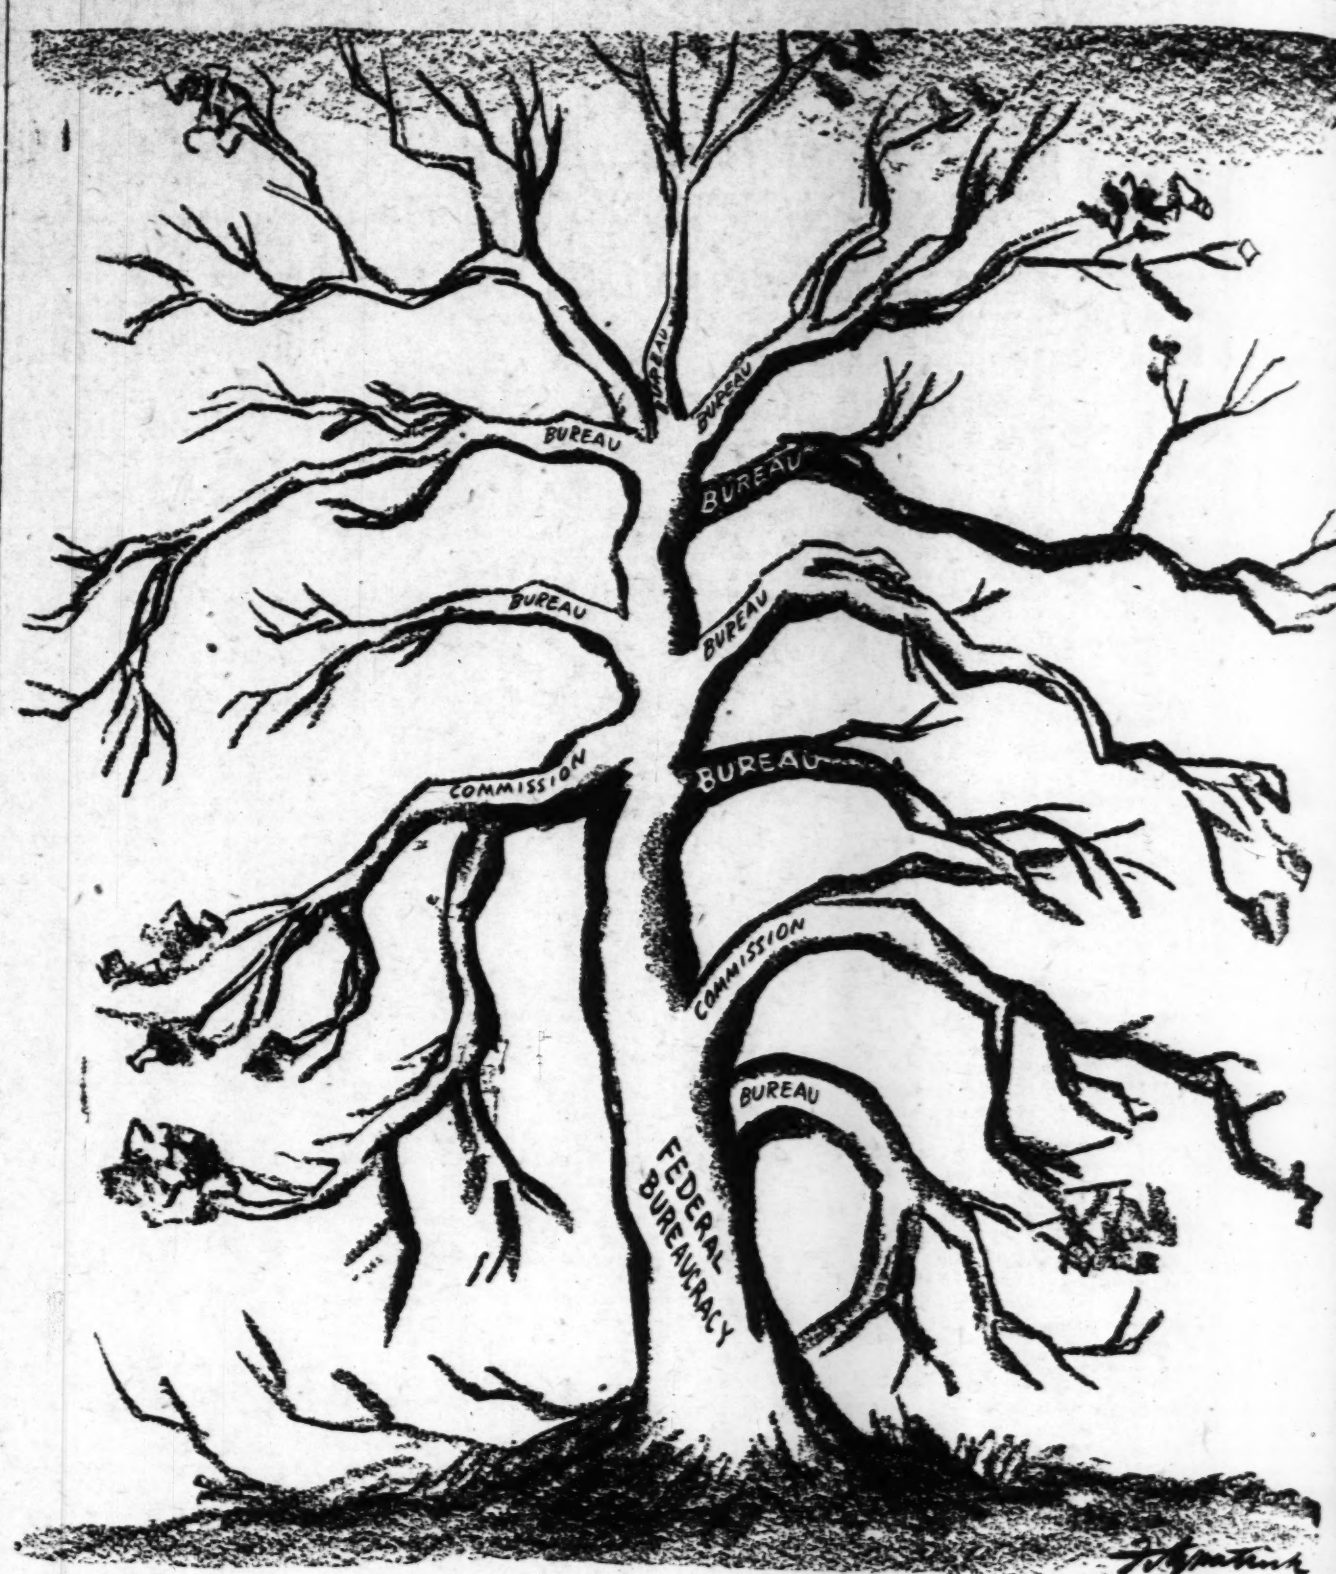

The boycott in politics is an unfair, intolerant, cowardly weapon. Such prejudice in the business world is, in the isolated instance under discussion, amusingly absurd. Its extension on a large scale, however, would be ruinous. The thing is, of course, inconceivable. The Milwaukee Supervisors have not started anything. The American people have too much common sense and common decency to go off on any such tangent. Nevertheless, the action of the Milwaukee Supervisors is not a whit more illogical, or unjustifiable, or contemptible than are the preaching and practices of the whole dry squigarchy.

A LEGAL LOOPHOLE.

A loophole in the law covering use of the mails for criminal purposes has been discovered by Congressman Cochran of St. Louis, who proposes to introduce a bill to plug it up. The bill provides fine and imprisonment for using the mails to extort money by threatening personal or property damage. In recent years, the crime of racketeering has developed to the proportions of large business. Society's weapons against it have proved inadequate. It is axiomatic that the law is a lagard and it is so in this instance.

Mr. Cochran's bill is so worded as to include letters, stamped or unstamped, dropped into any authorized depository of the postal service, which would include rural free delivery mail boxes. It will be recalled that the kidnappers of Dr. Kelley used two such boxes in St. Louis County to make contact with his family. Mr. Cochran's bill, however, does not apply to kidnappers because of the view of Attorney-General Mitchell, whose approval would be necessary to insure the success of the measure, that kidnapping legislation should be left to the states.

We do not understand the distinction between the crime of extortion and the crime of kidnapping. If there is any justification for Federal laws making it a criminal offense to mail extortionist or fraudulent matter, it seems to us there is equal justification for a law covering ransom letters. With criminal using every conceivable modern device to improve their strategy and tactics, society cannot war upon ceremony or split legal hairs if it is to protect itself.

A TREE THAT NEEDS PRUNING.

An English Liberal View of Hoover

Hopes for great achievements, voiced at Hoover's election, have failed, writer says; charges him with neglecting economic problem and catering to wealth; cites defects of character in lack of courage for leadership and refusal to face facts; President is called a "Rip Van Winkle in ideas" and "wrong man in wrong place."

Prof. Harold J. Laski, University of London, in the London Daily Herald.

WHEN Mr. Hoover became President of the United States two years ago, the feeling was wide and deep that he belonged naturally to the great line of Presidents. His reputation as an administrator was enormous. People spoke with bated breath of his work for Belgium and as Secretary of Commerce under Mr. Coolidge. It was generally prophesied that the era of scientific administration was to begin.

Now there is hardly anyone so poor as to do him reverence. The economic blizzard has swept over America, and it seems that at least 8,000,000 are wholly unemployed. Mr. Hoover has done nothing to cope with the problem. A grim individualist, the passionate defender of business, he will have nothing to do with obvious measures of relief. He speaks with passion against unemployment insurance. For him the charitable agencies are the only method of coping with the problem. Yet one has only to see the long lines of unemployed at every office which advertises a vacancy to realize the bankruptcy of this attitude.

He is a poor speaker, and little that he says seems to impress the people. He does not get on easily with other men, and there are few first-class minds in contact with him. The quality of most of his appointments is poor, and they seem to look less to the needs of the job than to his re-election in 1932. He has quarreled with Congress and much of its legislative program bears little resemblance to the policies he supports. His governing committees, but whose reports seem to carry no weight.

So far, at least, viewed either as a thinker or as a leader of men, it is difficult not to conclude that he has been a sorry failure.

What is the cause of this disappointment? Partly, I think, it lies in defects of character. President Hoover does not know how to handle men. He is jealous of quality, narrow in judgment, angry in opposition, too quick to mistake the rich man for the right man. He is stiff where he should be yielding and pliable when he should be firm. He has a tendency to refuse to face grim facts, an inability to believe that his judgment can be wrong. He thinks of today rather than of tomorrow, and the man with long views simply irritates him. He spends a large part of his time in what the American calls, "playing politics"; his chief concern seems to be less the problems of the United States than the problem of how he can be re-elected.

Experimentation on Animals

From the Illinois Health Messenger.

THE weight of past experience favors experimentation on animals as something which yields great benefit to mankind. Control over rabies and diphtheria, to cite but two examples, resulted from knowledge gained through experiments performed on animals. Every scrap of available evidence indicates that the application of that knowledge results in saving more than 1000 lives annually from these two diseases in Illinois alone. During 1930 the state supplied 405 of its citizens with the Pasteur treatment to prevent the development of rabies from mad dog bites. It distributed anti-toxin enough to treat 6343 cases of diphtheria.

There was recently before the Illinois Legislature a bill to prohibit research work that involves any sort of surgical procedure on dogs. This would have prevented studies that might be of infinite benefit to the dog family itself.

WASHINGTON, May 4.

THE revolution in Spain which removed Alfonso XIII from his throne also took from Washington one of the capital's best known diplomats, Senor Don Alejandro Padilla y Bell. The Spanish Ambassador was a favorite in Washington. The Spanish Embassy during his stay was known as a hospitable place.

Tall and slender, with a mustache much like Alfonso's, Senor Padilla has that personal charm and Latin manner which attract. That he had many friends here was shown by the stream of persons who called at the embassy after Alfonso's quit his throne to express their regrets at the departure of the 40-year-old Ambassador.

Monarchist or Republican—both knew that they were welcome at the Spanish Embassy under the Padilla regime. The Ambassador had the reputation of never discriminating politically.

PADILLA was the third ranking diplomat in Washington. More important was the strategic position he held in relation to the Latin American countries. He was regarded as the dean of Latin American diplomacy in the capital. As representative of the mother country, he had prestige among the Latin American diplomatic missions. He was proud of his position and strove constantly to strengthen it.

Padilla's career in Spanish diplomacy has been notable. His posts included the most important capitals of the world. Among his most diplomatic achievements was negotiation of the liquor smuggling convention with the United States, laying down regulations covering the transportation of liquor in Spanish vessels in North American waters. He also was a special representative of his country in the international conference on radio telegraphy in 1929.

A third achievement was negotiation of a commercial treaty between Spain and Italy in 1913 while he was chief of the commercial division of Spain's Foreign Office.

PADILLA first came to Washington in 1923 as a diplomatic attaché. In October, 1926, he returned as Ambassador. Four of his six children lived with him in Washington. One of his sons, Ramon, served under his father as second secretary of the embassy. Ramon, however, did not tender his resignation when Alfonso abdicated. He plans to continue in the diplomatic service of his country.

HOW SAN FRANCISCO HELPED.

From the San Francisco Call-Bulletin.
THIRTY THOUSAND men have been given work, so far, from the sale of half the $2,500,000 in unemployment bonds voted in November. Parks have been landscaped, trails have been built, and 100,000 trees have been planted. Playgrounds have been put in order—men have worked, drawn wages, bought groceries, rent and clothes. These dollars the people of San Francisco voted have helped.

INTERNATIONAL GOVERNMENT

By Edmund C. Mower.
D. C. Heath & Co. New York.

In this book the author, who is a professor of political science in the University of Vermont, attempts to give the modern Society of Nations a new lease on life. It is the result of studies, begun at the European conference of American professors, provided for by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, which the author has spent a year in Europe following the conference. He has undertaken to present in a single study an outline of the international governmental system at comprehensive length, to embrace its essential features and nontechnical enough to be of general interest, to meet the needs of students and others who do not care to go deeply into the subject along specialized lines, but who want to get a general understanding of the principles, machinery and methods of international political intercourse. The author hopes, by stimulating interest in the subject, to promote better cooperation between nations for international peace and good will.

MACARONI, SPAGHETTI AND EGG NOODLES

These Popular Products Offer Interesting Possibilities to the Menu Maker.

A nation-wide investigation recently showed that the average woman only knows two ways to use macaroni. In fact there are hundreds of recipes. In a recent nation wide contest in which many thousands of women took part, there were 385 contest winners, each of whom had submitted a different recipe for macaroni, egg noodles or spaghetti.

Modern cookery aims to enlarge the housewife's daily task of preparing three meals a day by offering her various recipes for preparing the everyday foods. Macaroni, for instance, can be served in many additional ways besides au gratin and baked with a custard sauce. This product may be successfully used as the basis for a salad.

Macaroni Salad.
Boil one package of macaroni in salted water until tender; drain and blanch with cold water. To the macaroni add shrimps, chopped celery, sliced apples and radishes cut in dice; mix well with good seasoned mayonnaise and add lemon juice or vinegar to suit taste. Place it on a bed of lettuce. Garnish with one hard-boiled egg and one sliced tomato. Serve real cold.

Fruit Salad.
Cook one package of macaroni in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and blanch with cold water. Cut apples in dice, grape fruit or orange, sliced bananas and other fruits in season. Add mayonnaise and cottage cheese. Mix these together with the macaroni and place all on a bed of lettuce. Garnish with bananas, oranges and chopped nuts.

Spaghetti, likewise, may be cooked in a variety of ways. It is very savory when fried. Spaghetti and pork chops make tempting dish.

Fried Spaghetti.
Take six ounces spaghetti, boil in water until tender. Take one onion and three tablespoonfuls of chopped ham; dry brown; then add spaghetti, one teaspoon tomato juice and salt; cover top with grated cheese and bake until brown.

Spaghetti and Pork Chops.
Cook one package of spaghetti in salt water and drain. Cut one pound pork chops in small pieces, season with salt and pepper and fry in butter until tender. Add the Noodle Fruit Salad.

Noodles are as versatile as the other two products. Try this salad. Cook one-half pound of noodles until tender. Drain and chill them. Mix together two tablespoonfuls grated onion, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon lemon juice, one-fourth cup pecan meats, one-fourth cup chopped green pepper, one-half cup chopped raw carrots, one up chopped red apple, unpared, one-half cup mayonnaise dressing and add to the chilled noodles. Serve salad on lettuce leaves and garnish with olives or pimento strips.

Try This Suggestion.
After juice has been extracted, dip lemon rinds in salt to clean tarnished copper or brass.

BAKED STUFFED ONIONS

Chop the onion removed from the center and mix (for two onions, or four servings) with one-half cup stale, fine breadcrumbs, salt and pepper to season, one tablespoon melted butter, a little chopped parsley and one-half teaspoon poultry seasoning. Stuff the onions with this, place in a baking dish, cover and bake for 30 minutes, or until tender. Remove the cover the last 10 minutes so the onions will brown.

Baked stuffed onions are particularly good with roast lamb. Use large sweet flavored onions, allowing half for each portion. Remove the outside skin, cut the onions across in half and boil in salted water for 20 minutes. Drain and remove some of the center, leaving a cup-shaped half that is to be filled with the stuffing.

SANDINO'S PEACE CONDITIONS

Nicaraguan Insurgent Demands Withdrawal of U. S. Claims.

MEXICO CITY, May 4.—Pedro Jose Zepeda, representative of Augusto Sandino, Nicaraguan insurgent, today outlined the conditions under which Sandino would lay down his arms.

They are: Immediate withdrawal of American forces; a pledge by the Nicaraguan Government to obtain

LEGISLATURE ENDS

WITH COMPROMISE ON TWO MEASURES

report was submitted and its adoption moved by Representative Glatzer of Buchanan County. Representative Calhoun of Franklin County opposed the Conference Committee item of $350,000 for the patrol. He said the appropriation was too large.

Calvin was a bitter opponent of the patrol bill and was one of the leaders in the House fight to defeat it. The opponents succeeded in beating the bill when it came up for passage the first time, but the House subsequently reconsidered the adverse vote and passed the bill.

Representative Blair of Cole County, Democratic majority floor leader, who also opposed the patrol bill, joined in opposition to the Conference Committee report, but said his opposition was based on a Senate amendment to the appropriation bill which would prevent the State Highway Department from buying automobiles costing more than $1000, for use by the Highway Department. Blair urged the House reject the report and throw the bill back into another conference.

Representative Roney of Jasper County, who, with Representative Dunsen of Lafayette County, handled the patrol bill in the House, asserted the fight on the appropriation was an attempt by opponents of the patrol to kill the patrol law by withholding necessary funds.

The other factor in the 14-hour deadlock was the amount to be appropriated to two Kansas City lawyers who conducted the eight-year litigation of the State for a 10 per cent reduction in fire insurance rates.

The Senate stood for a $250,000 fee for the attorneys in the insurance litigation, while the House fought to limit the fee to $150,000.

Lack of Quorum. The House deadlock arose from lack of a quorum, which requires unanimous consent to pass any bill by casting an earlier roll call for it, and to the insistence of each of two opposing groups that they would not grant unanimous consent on any bill until the other agreed to its wishes on appropriations.

As a result, the State Highway Department bill of $56,596,000 for the biennial period, including $350,000 for the highway patrol, and the general contingent, relief and deficiency bill carrying several million dollars in appropriations, including a $250,000 fee for Barker and Jacobs, were held up for lack of unanimous consent to use of a previous roll call to pass them.

The rural group withheld consent on the general contingent and relief bill, demanding the appropriation of $250,000 as fee for Barker and Jacobs fixed by the Senate be cut to $150,000, as provided in the original House bill. Another group, chiefly House lawyers, including opponents of the patrol force, supported the attorneys' fee and withheld unanimous consent to passage of the highway bill, including the patrol item, demanding the lawyers' fee be approved at $250,000. Supporters of the patrol also withheld consent on the attorney fee item.

At last the weary legislators approved a compromise and the appropriation bills were passed.

8 Years Litigation. Barker and Jacobs represented the State Insurance Department in the nearly eight years of litigation over the fire insurance rate reduction order of 1922, which finally was sustained in the courts. Later the stock fire insurance companies increased their rate 16 2-3 per cent, and suits are pending over that action.

Barker and Jacobs already have received a total of $58,000 in fees in addition to their expenses in the suits. They asked the legislature for an additional fee, without fixing the amount, but presented estimates from about 100 other lawyers of what would be a reasonable fee, the estimates ranging from $200,000 to $3,000,000.

The total amount carried by the appropriation bill will exceed the estimate of anticipated revenues by probably about $1,000,000, the

in many years.

With the exception of the bill carrying appropriations for new buildings at institutions, the total appropriated will be approximately $22,300,000, which is less than $1,000,000 in excess of the estimated revenue. The building bill carries a total of $2,526,037, but it was passed in order that the money would be available if the revenues exceeded the estimates, and not with the expectation that it be used unless there should be extra revenues.

Proposed Building Program. Buildings provided for include: Light, heat and power plant, State Hospital No. 1, Fulton, $292,000; fireproofing State hospitals at Fulton, St. Joseph, Nevada, $50,000 each; hospital building, Washington, $100,000; power plant, Missouri State School, Marshall, $150,000; hospital, Federal Soldiers' Home, St. James, $60,000; hospital building, Mount Vernon Sanatorium, $100,000; University of Missouri, purchase of land, $115,000; library wing, $300,000; Kirksville Teachers' College, $408,437; Rolla School of Mines, $250,000; Booneville Reformatory, $45,000; Warrensburg State Teachers' College, $295,000; Maryville Teachers' College, $250,000; administration building, poultry experiment station, Mountain Grove, $25,000; industrial building, Lincoln University, Jefferson City, $50,000; purchase of prison property, Jefferson City, $40,000; purchase of land, St. Joseph Hospital, $50,000; Psychopathic Hospital at Kansas City, $150,000.

Two Hurt in Gasoline Explosion. By the Associated Press. ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 4.—An explosion at a gasoline filling station shook the downtown business district at noon today, injuring Paul Johnson, 21 years old, of Cleveland, and Joseph Mittelmann, 31, proprietor. The cause has not been determined. Broken glass was showered for 200 feet.

STOMACH UPSET. Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—inactive liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Olive Tablets, the substitute of calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They work without griping, cramping, pain. All druggists, 15c and 60c. Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

OBJECTS TO CHARITY'S BIG LIST OF PAROLES

Gerk Says 60 Convicts Report Monthly to Volunteers of America.

A letter calling attention to the large number of convicts from other states paroled to Ernest G. Stubley, adjutant of the Volunteers of America, which maintains a mission at 1604 Market street, has been sent to the Chamber of Commerce by Chief of Police Gerk.

Stating that Stubley, as St. Louis representative of the Volunteer Prison League, has 60 paroled convicts reporting to him personally or by mail if they are in other cities, Chief Gerk wrote: "I present the facts to the Chamber of Commerce in hope that steps may be taken to curb the activities of the Volunteers of America as operated now."

Scott R. DeKins, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said the letter and accompanying reports of police officers would be turned over to the chamber's Charities Committee. He added that the organization never had been endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce and that it was not a member of the Community Council.

Agreement in Illinois.
Detective Lieutenant John Cookley, assigned to investigate the organization, reported that many Illinois convicts paroled to Stubley were released only upon agreement that they not return to Illinois. In addition to these, he stated, men sponsored by Stubley included former inmates of the Federal penitentiaries at Leavenworth and Atlanta, the Federal Industrial Reformatory at Chillicothe, O., and the Michigan State Penitentiary. Five former convicts, Cookley reported, now are employed by the Volunteers of America "at starvation wages."

Two are employed to drive trucks of the organization which pick up waste material and old clothing and receive $3 a day. Two helpers on the trucks receive $2. The fifth man, employed on a farm of the organization in St. Louis County, receives $1.50 a day. Lieut. Cookley quoted Stubley as saying that it was easier to find employment for a former convict than for a man who had not been in prison. The explanation said to have been given was that they would work for less money and were more eager to find employment.

Chief Gerk's letter stated: "In view of the employment situation, it is not pleasant to contemplate that such people are being imported into our city to enter into competition with good citizens with families depending upon them. Paroled convicts not wanted in Illinois certainly are not entitled to be welcomed with open arms in St. Louis and Missouri."

The letter also called attention to the fact that Stubley is not a resident of St. Louis, residing at 7478 Amherst avenue, University City. A copy of the letter and the reports also was sent to Gov. Caulfield.

REPORTS IMPROVEMENT IN U. S. PRISON CONDITIONS

Director Bates Informs Hoover That Substantial Progress Was Made Last Year.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—President Hoover has been informed by Sanford Bates, Director of the Bureau of Prisons, that substantial progress toward improving conditions in Federal prisons was made last year. There are in Federal prisons 12,598 persons and 2624 under parole. This compares with 13,339 in prison two years ago and 963 out on parole. Bates said the increase was due to a more strict enforcement of law.

The two great problems facing the prison bureau, Bates said, were overcrowding and the reform of methods of handling prisoners with a view to improving their attitude toward society.

A school for prison officers was established from which already 129 trained prison guards have been graduated and the Civil Service has been extended to all prison employees.

"Our friend Burton and the Wilson girl—you knew that left tonight?"

Talks to PARENTS By Alice Judson Peale

Enlarging Baby's Horizon

ANY child in the past probably had his disposition permanently spoiled because his mother was so proud of him that she showed him off to every visitor without regard for the fact that it made him tired, nervous and irritable or interfered with a nap or a meal.

The intelligent, present-day mother has learned not to do this. Instead she often goes to the other extreme. The baby is placed in his bed on the sun porch for long, monotonous days with no interruption at all save for meals and necessary physical care.

Aside from the fact that the small baby needs occasional changes of position to prevent physical malformation, to rest him and to exercise different parts of his body, he needs them as a part of his education.

The world viewed from a horizontal position within a small, white bed, which stands always in the same place, is lacking in sufficient mental stimulation for even the very young baby.

Before he is able to sit up he should occasionally be held in a sitting position and be permitted to look about at what must seem to him an entirely new scene. It helps even to have his bed or carriage turned to face different parts of the room now and then.

The baby enjoys sociability, too. Father or mother leaning over his bed to talk to him from a high point of pleasure and interest in his day. Being picked up and carried about and talked to in a cheerful, friendly voice is even more delightful.

It is well if this sort of attention comes approximately at the same hour each day so he can learn to count on it and still not demand it at all times after the traditional manner of the spoiled baby.

Marriage Followed by Arthur Somers Roche

CHAPTER THIRTY-ONE.

"PLEASE," she said, "tell me." "There is nothing to tell," he replied. "A coarse woman."

"I want to know exactly what she said," she interrupted. He shrugged. "Why, dear Mrs. Tracy, pay heed to the utterances of such a person? She is, God pity her, a courtesan, sunk so low that she pays men for little kindnesses. What does it matter that such a woman mentions one?"

"It mattered 200,000 francs to you," she reminded him. "And, of course, I will repay you."

"Can there ever be question of payment or repayment between us?" he asked.

She flashed him a glance that should have warned him, but only served to inspire him. Most men are apt to find it difficult to distinguish between gratitude and affection. "Do you not know," he went on, "that to serve you must always be my desire?"

She ignored this.

"What did she tell you?" she insisted.

The waiter arrived with what passed for tea in France, and, for a moment, Joyce busied herself with the tea things. Her faintness was gone now, nevertheless she sipped the liquid gratefully.

The little bar in which they sat was deserted save for the barman, and a waiter. Nevertheless, Valdemagars kept his tones low. "Do you see, Mrs. Tracy?" "And I insist, Billy," she said. He sighed.

"There was some trifling matter of which the woman seemed to think might annoy you if made public."

"It would," said Joyce. "I paid her money to keep her silence, was a great mistake."

"I knew that the moment I'd given her the money, she would tell me. What did she say?"

"That was all," replied the Marquis.

"But she explained the matter," said Joyce.

"I have already forgotten it. I know it was not true," he countered.

"Then why pay her?"

HE MET her glance fairly. How long had they been acquainted? A matter of hours only, and this man, if she knew anything of his past, was a great deal, one who had been through the fires of a hundred temptations unscathed. She was married to his friend, and she knew that friendship was no light thing to Billy Valdemagars; knew that it was a mighty force in his life. Not easily would he let himself fall so far in friendship and honor that he would fall in love with a friend's wife. For she knew that Billy Valdemagars had his secret from the whole world, he would nevertheless feel that he had done something unworthy even in passing to his own bosom his illicit passion.

For it was this last that blazed from his eyes. This was, if he knew anything of men, the love of his life. Her thoughts drifted far. Marchioness de Valdemagars was the secret from the whole world, he would nevertheless feel that he had done something unworthy even in passing to his own bosom his illicit passion.

Marchioness de Valdemagars was the secret from the whole world, he would nevertheless feel that he had done something unworthy even in passing to his own bosom his illicit passion.

THEY had consumed their tea. "You came to play?" he asked. "I don't feel like it now," she replied. "But you—"

"No, I rarely play. I came down here to see this woman—"

"Why? Had her talk been repeated to that you heard it?"

He shook his head. "After all, she was the only one who would look after Weeden. And—well, the man was bad, but—"

"I understand," she said. "Billy, you're rather a nice person."

"My dear," he said, "that is exactly what I am not. I am—but I will never know, so—why expose myself?"

Now, for the first time, the Billy Valdemagars whom she had known since through his gay eyes twinkled, and his red hair seemed to glow with each word and gesture.

"Our friend Burton and the little Wilson girl—you knew that they left tonight?"

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch Daily Magazine. 'Only Stupid People Are Unhappy'

Three poses of Ann Harding, a new and very successful leading lady of the pictures.

Says Ann Harding Who Has Found Contentment by Avoiding Artificial Entertainment—Devotes All of Her Time to Her Career and Her Home.

RE modern women dull? The accusation has been hurled at them by no less an authority than Michael Arlen, who thinks freedom has made them so.

"They have a dull time," he alleges further. "They have let out of a lot of pleasant duties they were perfectly willing to perform. They have given men more freedom, which men do not need, and they have made their own lives that much duller."

Ann Harding, her eyes bluer because of the hunter's green of her gown, her silver-gilt hair banded flat across her beautiful brow, considered the matter gravely.

"Sometimes I think modern women are a dull lot," she confessed, "but they have no right to be dull."

"I am a rank individualist. I think unhappiness is a crime. In fact, only stupid people are unhappy—except for brief intervals when real grief overtakes even the happiest. If they weren't stupid, they wouldn't be unhappy because they'd find a way out; or they'd put their minds to thinking how to get the utmost joy out of life as it stood, until luck changed."

"The trouble with our generation of women is that they accept other people's conclusions on what is enjoyable, what is relaxation, what is smart and so on. Recreation for each of us should be doing the thing we really like doing."

THE telephone bell rang and Ann lifted it from its stand beside her comfortable chair. Every piece of furniture in the Harding-Bannister living room is built for use and comfort, which may be one reason that the whole effect is of graciousness and beauty.

"Oh, lower!" she cried into the mouthpiece. "I didn't know you were home." And then, at the inaudible message: "Oh, I'm so happy! I'm so thrilled!"

Her face lit up as though an inner fire had suddenly been lighted. "That was my husband," she told me as she replaced the instrument on its stand. "We've bought our first airplane. Isn't that glorious?"

"I love flying," Harry and I are quite mad about it and we'll be in the seventh heaven. We're going to take Jane, our daughter, on her first flight soon. I believe I'd put flying on my list as second to work as a bringer of joy."

"Next, I like working in a garden. Digging. Planting. Anything that has to do with growing things. I believe I could have made a good gardener."

"It's amusing to play games, too. Anagrams. Spelling matches. Some card games. Interesting contests in which brains count."

"If men and women who marry cannot agree on what constitutes a good time, it seems to me there is not much hope for that marriage. They must love to play together, be good friends and enjoy another's company. And how can they do that if one of them is doing something that the other loathes to do? Money is only a medium of exchange. More important than anything else in the world is happiness, and you can't be happy if you are doing work you loathe."

"All successful people love their jobs. So it's important to find one that you can love."

"Often, as I have traveled from town to town, I've studied the girls the Queen, too. And you will see Perforator, the matador from Portugal, who kills the bull from the back of a horse! A horseman and a horse. Such grace, such skill. . . . You have not seen Spain. Ah, Sevilla at Easter! You and Larry must visit me next spring."

"And I think," she laughed, "that you and I should visit Larry now."

"Where is he?" he asked.

"He had left the villa when I looked for him," she admitted. "Where would one search for a husband in this town?"

"A thousand places for most husbands, but for the husband of Joyce Tracy, one would look instinctively at his wife's side."

"Gracefully said, Billy," she chaffed. "But, falling there, was the matador from Portugal?"

"We admit that he is not normal. If he is not with you every minute, he laughs, 'but let us grant that he possesses traces of normality. Wherefore, we should find Jeanne Maxwell, when all men who are not surrounding you must be.'"

"Wasn't there something said about tea with her?" asked Joyce.

"There was. Shall we go there?"

HEALTH

Brief articles prepared by experts. Edited by Dr. Iago Goldston, for the New York Academy of Medicine.

The Narcotic Drugs

PIUM and its derivatives, morphine and codein, as well as cocaine, have been called by Sir William Osler, "God's own medicine."

In many conditions the narcotic drugs are the only agents which the physician can employ to make life tolerable, and to relieve a patient from excruciating pain.

In certain conditions, such as in those suffering with gall stones, or when a kidney stone is passing down through a ureter or when the pancreas is inflamed, the suffering is so great that the afflicted individual prefers death. Under such circumstances the narcotic drugs are a God-send.

Again, there are times when adversity is too much for man. Grief, sorrow or disappointment rob him of all ability to relax. Sleep cannot be won, and the tired brain reels on in a mad dance.

Here too "surcease of sorrow," as the poet puts it, can be secured through the use of one of the milder narcotic drugs.

Then there are the hopeless sick, those suffering from inoperable cancers, whose few remaining days on earth can be made tolerable by one or another of the narcotic drugs.

In all these circumstances and in many others, the narcotic drugs are indispensable.

And yet the unique nature of "God's own medicine" makes possible the great tragedy of drug addiction, which afflicts, it has been estimated, more than a million persons in the United States.

It is common belief that many drug addicts result from prolonged medical treatment with narcotics. Even by taking the often unreliable word of the addicts not more than 25 per cent charge their plight to medical experience.

More often addiction results when one with little will power takes narcotics to achieve an artificial state of happiness.

Mother's Day Out
Mean a day the bridge club meets means a bit of figuring on mother's part so she has an interesting dinner for the family just the same. If she wants to serve a casserole dish the best plan is to cook it within about a half hour's completion in the morning and then reheat it and continue cooking while she is preparing the finishing touches of the meal. It will mean no worry for mother and a very nice surprise for the family.

Home Care of Permanent Waves

MOST women need the softness of their hair. While certain types can wear straight hair becomingly, they are in the minority and others must depend on artificial curls to frame their faces. Just now when fashion demands softness, straight hair becomes more of a problem than it has been for several years. A permanent wave is advisable if you can afford to have it done by a reliable operator. The right kind of a permanent will not cause the hair to split or to become excessively dry. While the permanent wave in itself is more severe than ordinary marcelling, once the hair has gone through the process the job is done for at least three months. During this time the natural oils are permitted to lubricate and nourish the hair unhampered by further treatment. The dryness which results immediately following the permanent, can be relieved with a few hot oil treatments. The better salons just now are selling oil combs for this purpose. They are made like an electric curling iron with hollow teeth along one side. The end of the cylinder screws off and reveals a chamber into which the oil is poured and heated. When passed through the hair the oil flows into it from the hollow teeth. You may not find a permanent entirely satisfactory since the waves must be set after each shampoo, so actually, unless your hair is extremely coarse, you may not feel that you have gained a good deal. Most hair, given a little time, can be trained to wave even where there seems to be no trace of natural curls. The hair must be in good condition first, however. Use a hot oil shampoo before you try to wave your hair the first time and you will have better luck. The hair should be dried slightly first by rubbing the scalp with a soft towel and rubbing the hair between the palms of the hands. When the hair is still damp, comb a waving fluid through it. Arrange the waves with your hands and it dries. The hair will be stiff at first, but the stiffness will disappear when you run a comb through it.

Broiled White Fish
An excellent solution for the fish course of the elaborate dinner: Cut the whitefish into one-inch slices. Wipe dry, sprinkle with salt, pepper and spread liberally with butter. Place on a greased broiler and hold over fire until the flesh side is crisp. Turn and brown the other side. Lift carefully with a cake turner and serve desired amount to each person, garnished with lemon, butter and parsley.

Jacket Fits in Purse

THE latest fad in daytime wraps for Paris is a jacket small enough to put in milady's purse. The jackets are tiny affairs of soft crepe or wool, generally sleeveless and falling only a few inches lower than the shoulder blades. They generally match the gown in color and may be tucked into the purse when the wearer wishes to discard them.

Strawberry Ice Cream
The berry season is such a short one we try to take advantage of all strawberry recipes. Wash and hull one and a half quarts of strawberries. Sprinkle with two cups sugar. Cover and let mellow for two hours. Add one and a half quarts cream and a pinch of salt. Freeze until solid and then pack in ice and salt for three hours.

Whitens Teeth 3 Shades in 3 Days

LOOK in the mirror. Are your teeth ridged with yellow—stained, decayed in spots? Are gums drawing away from teeth and growing pale? If so, now is the right time to try the scientific Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique—a half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush, morning and night.

Overnight you'll note an improvement. For this unique dental cream kills millions of germs that sweep into the mouth with every breath and cause 99% of all tooth and gum troubles. In just 3 days your teeth will look cleaner and whiter—fully 3 shades whiter. Gums will feel firmer and look healthier. Your mouth will tingle with a clean, sweet taste.

The very moment Kolynos enters the mouth it FOAMS, thus permitting the use of a dry brush which makes Kolynos 10 times more effective.

U. S. LABOR OFFICE OFFERS MEDIATION
ON P. S. CO. WAGE

Proposal Made by Commissioner of Conciliation,
Who Points Out Cost of Strike.

URGES CONFERENCE, THEN ARBITRATION

Suggests Each Side Name
Member of Board and Third be a Neutral—Inquiry Into Finances.

The mediation services of the United States Department of Labor have been offered to the Public Service Co. and the Street Car men's Union in their dispute over the company's proposal to cut wages 10 per cent monthly, continging on the company not earning its interest requirements.

The offer was made by B. M.
Marshman, commissioner of conciliation, who conferred with both company and union officers yesterday. Marshman pointed out that a strike is costly to both sides, has demoralizing effects, and leaves both sides losing.

"I believe this situation can be settled by the company and the union across the conference table," Marshman said. "As a last resort
I suggest arbitration by a committee composed of a company man, union man and a disinterested person. This committee would spend 30 days studying every angle of the case, and go to the bottom of the company's financial statement. If that way the company would have a fair chance to justify its present position."

Mediation of Department.
Marshman explained that representatives of the Department of Labor frequently act as mediators in labor disputes at the request of both parties. A notable instance was a dispute between the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana and its employees.
"The department has no authority to force its services on anyone, but we have been of frequent service, due to our varied experience," Marshman said. "We are able to bring both sides together in conference, and to offer helpful suggestions for settlement of differences."

Both company and union officers said they would consider arbitration only as a last resort on the ground that such a settlement usually results in compromised Marshman explained that a compromise is not inevitable, and that in the Standard Oil case each side has been sustained on different occasions.

Without going into the merits of the local case, Marshman pointed out that President Hoover and other Government executives are advocating that wage standards be maintained, and that there be no cut in wages.

Lower Wages, Less Buying.
"Reduced wages mean reduced purchasing power," Marshman said. "Congress apparently has that in mind on March 3 in passing a law requiring contractors to pay the prevailing wage scale on Government work in excess of $5000.
A union committee headed by Harry M. Nelson, president of the union, expects to confer with company officers tomorrow. If an agreement is reached, W. D. Mahon, international president of the union, will be summoned here from Detroit to confer with company officers."

The company has notified the union that the present wage agreement expires at midnight May 3.
Union officers have indicated that a strike vote will be taken prior to that time, unless the company withdraws its reduction proposition.
